

JUSTICE DONE?

The Globe and Mail (Ontario Edition) · 12 Feb 2020 · A14

Re The Key To Khadr (Letters, Feb. 11): A letter-writer champions the rights of victims in disparaging the $10.5-million Omar Khadr settlement. It seems to me this is exactly the issue addressed by the settlement. Doug Wiens Edmonton

If the Omar Khadr saga was really a testament to Canadian principles of justice, then we wouldn't have had to pay him $10.5-million – and the list of groups given intervenor status by the Canadian court would not read like a who's who of humanrights organizations. Judith Hazlett Kingston
