OVERVIEW

This is the seventh up-date of the Annotated Bibliography of the Cultural History of the German-Speaking Communities in Alberta: 1882-2000—which appeared in 2002—covering publications during 2012 and 2013. It also includes hundreds of items published before 2012, most of them located in Alberta’s Provincial Archives and other repositories which have recently become available on-line, among them abstracts from Alberta’s German-language newspapers between 1905 and the present.

The entire bibliography consisting of 10,250 entries is also available on the Internet at http://www.ualberta.ca/~german/altahistory/. Up-dates have been performed frequently on this site while printed up-dates have appeared annually or biannually. A complementary website (http://www.ualberta.ca/~german/PAA/start.htm) offers information about Alberta’s German-speaking communities from the 1880s to the present, their origin in Central and Eastern Europe, and their settlement history in the province.

The Bibliography Project documents the cultural history of the German-speaking cultural groups in Alberta from its beginnings in the 1880s to the present by assembling in one place references to the thousands of primary and secondary materials available in libraries and archives across Alberta and elsewhere. The objective of this project is to facilitate research in German-Albertan history by scholars, teachers, students, and anyone else interested in the subject.

Please note: This is an annotated bibliography, not a continuous text. Each entry (newspaper articles, books, maps, photos, recordings, journal articles, etc.) contains the author (where applicable), title, year of publication and a brief description of its content, ranging from one sentence to several pages depending on the complexity of the material. These summaries will provide an overview of events; details can be obtained by consulting the originals. For example, Account of the author’s trip to Wetaskiwin, Edmonton, Stony Plain, Bruderfeld, Rabbit Hill and the vicinity of Leduc.

Report on the satisfactory progress made by the 55 German settlers in the vicinity of Wetaskiwin. See also July 22, 1897.
Availability: Alberta Legislature Library, Edmonton.

This up-date, covering 2012 and 2013, consists of three main parts:

1. The bibliography containing 667 entries.

2. An alphabetically arranged index of the ca. 1,173 keywords used to index this up-date of the Bibliography.

3. Lists of the names of clubs, churches, businesses and professions, persons mentioned in the Bibliography etc. to facilitate the search.

QUICK START

This bibliography is easy to use. Let’s assume that you want to find all references to the German-Canadian Club of Calgary.

1. Go to the Index and look for “German-Canadian Club of Calgary” (the search term is on p. 78). Next to it, you will find a list of the record numbers in which this search term occurs (in this case, 467 and 489).

2. Go the main part of the bibliography and look for each record number in turn. For instance, record number 467 appears on page 52.
DESCRIPTION OF THE DATABASE

A. Brief history of the project

During the 1970s and 1980s, both the Federal Government of Canada and the Provincial Government of Alberta encouraged Canada’s ethnocultural groups to maintain, document and develop their cultural heritage, and they provided funding for this purpose. Like many other groups, the German-Canadian Association of Alberta decided to establish an inventory of German-Canadians in Alberta’s libraries, archives and private collections. This inventory was to make it possible for members of the several German-speaking groups and others, for scholars as well as teachers, to access information about the heritage of speakers of German in the province in a single, central database.

Please note: In this bibliography, the terms “German cultural group” and “speakers of German” include “Germans” from Germany in its various political incarnations, from the U.S., Central and Eastern Europe; it also includes the Austro-Hungarians, the Austrians, the Swiss, the Mennonites, and the Hutterites. The term “German” or “the Germans” should therefore always be taken to refer to this broader meaning.

A small committee consisting of representatives of the German-Canadian Association of Alberta and several staff members from the University of Alberta developed an action plan. After a grant was received from the Multicultural Commission, a researcher was hired to collect bibliographical references on the “German cultural groups in Alberta” and to organize them by keywords in a standard card catalogue. A great deal of work was accomplished by the researcher in documenting more than 1,000 entries. However, as government policy changed, grant money became no longer available, and after about six months the search had to be terminated. Several months later, a volunteer from the Association entered more than half the items collected into a professional-quality database to facilitate information retrieval. Subsequently, the project lay dormant for several years.

In 1998, the compiler of this Bibliography undertook to complete the project on his own on behalf of, and with the consent of the German-Canadian Association of Alberta. Two years later, the Bibliography was published on the Internet and as a book to disseminate this information as widely as possible to both the professional and the lay person interested in the cultural history of “the Germans” in Alberta. It is hoped that the concise annotation accompanying each entry will provide enough information to whet the reader’s curiosity and to guide him or her in researching topics of interest. The bibliography and all updates are available at the major university libraries in Canada as well as at a few in the U.S., Germany and England. Copies have also been deposited with the National Library of Canada and the Library of Congress.

This bibliography adds substantially to the important and comprehensive investigations carried out by Professor Alexander Malyczky (University of Calgary), Professor Hartmut Froeschle (University of Toronto), and others. Their pioneering and exhaustive bibliographical work is gratefully acknowledged as are the contributions of many others.

It is in the nature of a bibliography that it is likely to be incomplete and, in places, incorrect. The compiler welcomes suggestions for additions and changes. Please contact the compiler (Manfred Prokop, 209 Tucker Boulevard, Okotoks, AB, T1S 2K1; tel.: 403/995-0321; e-mail: manfred.prokop@ualberta.ca.

B. Materials

The data base consists of references to primary materials (such as articles in German-language and English-language newspapers, letters, photos, sound recordings, art work, travelogues, literature, official documents, reports, cooking recipes, oral histories, church and club records, manuscripts and maps) and of secondary materials (articles in scholarly journals, books and chapters in books on the “Germans” in Alberta, theses and dissertations). Each record has been catalogued by certain criteria, such as “author”, “title”, “date of publication”, and “keywords.” Key words are, for example, “Folk art”, “Immigration”, “Deutscher Damenchor Wildrose”, “German-Canadian Association of Alberta”, or “Schmid”. A list of such keywords in the Appendix has been prepared to assist the reader in searches of the data base.
C. Sources

Please note: Only publicly accessible materials (that is, items in public and university libraries, public archives, etc.) have been catalogued.

2. Periodicals, books, collections: University of Alberta, Provincial Archives of Alberta, National Library of Canada, the Glenbow and other archives in Alberta.

D. Location and availability of materials

An attempt was made to locate as many of the materials in Alberta’s libraries and archives in the order of the size of their holdings in German-Albertan cultural history, viz. the University of Alberta Library, the Provincial Archives in Edmonton, the Glenbow Museum and Archives in Calgary, the University of Calgary Library, the City of Edmonton Archives, and others.

IMPORTANT: The location and call number of all entries are given in the bibliography except - for space reasons - in the case of newspaper articles. Originals and microfilms of the newspaper articles mentioned in the database may be found in the following locations:

- Albertaner: National Library of Canada (microfilm). The Stanley A. Milner Library Branch of the Edmonton Public Library keeps originals for a few weeks and the Provincial Archives of Alberta.
- Calgary Albertan: University of Alberta. AN 5 A3 C1 A333 (microfilm)
- Calgary Herald: University of Alberta, Edmonton. AN5 A3 C1 H53 (microfilm)
- Edmonton Bulletin: University of Alberta. AN 5 A3 E2 B9366 (microfilm)
- Edmonton Journal: University of Alberta, Edmonton. AN 5 A3 E2 E3 (microfilm)
- Lethbridge Herald: University of Alberta. AN 5 A3 L6 L64 (microfilm)
- Medicine Hat News: University of Alberta. AN 5 A3 M4 M6 (microfilm)
- Red Deer Advocate: Provincial Archives of Alberta. 68.227 (microfilm)

Since 1990 the Canadian Newsstand Complete Online Database, which contains newspaper articles in the form of data files, has been available to readers who have access to university libraries. A sign-on ID is required to log in to the data base. This bibliography makes extensive use of the database.

E. Specialized Keyword Lists

There are two lists facilitating searches for businesses and occupations in which members of the German cultural group have been active:

- Keywords in business, commerce and industry (p. 4)
- Keywords in the occupations and professions (p. 4)
- German-Albertan businesses, Austrian/German/Swiss business partners or investors (p. 5)

Proper names (e.g., personal names, church names, names of clubs, groups or associations) are also available as keywords. The following lists are available:

- Church names (p. 6)
- Names of Hutterite colonies (p. 6)
- German-Canadian social clubs and other groups (p. 6)
- German-Albertan bands, orchestras, choirs and other musical groups (p. 7)
  - Visiting bands, orchestras, choirs and other musical groups (p. 7)
  - Festivals and other events (p.7)
- German-Albertan dance, theatre and carnival groups (p. 8)
- Persons mentioned in the Bibliography (p. 8)
- Awards and prizes (p. 9)
- Schools and other educational institutions and initiatives (p. 10)

The bibliography is organized chronologically by date.

Wilhelm Wensel of Strathcona will open a grocery and general store at the Daly corner opposite Wainwright’s stable.

Pastor Reinitz from Stony Plain will again hold a service in Beaver Hills, probably in the school house because the church is not yet finished. Upon the invitation by O. Firadi, Pastor F. Bredlow of Wetaskiwin will hold a service in his house in Blumenau.

About 50 delegates from all over the Stony Plain electoral district will meet in the Stony Plain Centre to select a Liberal candidate. Dan Brox, John McPherson and S. Truscott are the only candidates right now, but more are expected to run. The main task at the convention will be to select a single candidate so as not to fragment the Liberal vote and give a Conservative the chance to be elected. Since most delegates are Germans it should not be too difficult for them to select a German candidate or a candidate who enjoys the Germans’ confidence. The Germans should pay special attention to the candidates’ character and abilities rather than their personal and business qualities. Of course, when such a candidate has been selected he should be able to count on all votes of the Germans in the district.

John A. McPherson was unanimously elected as the Liberal candidate at a Liberal convention in Stony Plain. There were only two candidates, John McPherson and Sidney Truscott.

44. “[Der deutsche Verein Edelweiss].” Alberta Herold, October 20, 1905, p. 8.

The Edelweiss German Club will hold its first formal ball on October 31 in Sandison Hall. All members are welcome.

There are three candidates running for office in the Stony Plain electoral district. The Liberal McPherson, Mr. Weidenhammer—although strongly conservative—as an Independent, and Mr. Brox, “a man of indescribable quality.” The Germans should vote for the Liberals because they are the Germans’ friend. They have promised to translate all laws into German, and they guarantee that public schools, under the School Act, will have complete freedom to offer religious instruction and language classes. The Conservatives are well-known as haters of the foreign-born (calling them worse than Doukhobours and Indians), and they will change the school legislation so that the Germans will lose the right to offer German in the public schools. The Germans should not vote for an Independent (who is actually a Conservative) because he will not be able to help the Germans in a Liberal government. The Conservatives know that they do not have a chance in this district, and so they parachute in an “Independent” (Weidenhammer) to attract a few votes away from the Liberals. The third candidate, Brox, should not even be considered. The Germans will remember that he ran as a third candidate a few years ago to help Secord get in. If he thinks the Germans are so generous as not to remember him he is mistaken.—[Large advertisement on p. 6 endorsing the Liberals and several lists of Liberal candidates across the province].

75. “[Herr Ludwig Deggendorfer].” Alberta Herold, April 20, 1906, p. 5.

Ludwig Deggendorfer, who arrived here from Vienna with his family some three months ago, has purchased a taxidermy shop on 2nd Street opposite the Thistle Skating Rink.

The group takes no responsibility for any ads regarding the Society as they are not authorized and paid for by them. Theirs is an independent society. The president is C. Weisser, Bittern Lake; the treasurer is M. Krause and the secretary is W. Rewitz. The Society has 152 members, not all of them are Germans.

The first anniversary celebration of the Edelweiss German Club was a great success. About 45 couples attended the event that lasted until 4 a.m. After a short welcome by president Sutter various artists and members of the community presented songs, comedy sketches and other dramatic performances. A dance followed. (Mrs. Graffunder sang “Wenn die Schwalben heimwärts ziehen”; the Schaibel Brothers, H. Neher and C. Müller presented a comedy sketch; Mr. Mecke followed with the presentation of a “Buschiad”; Ms. Dora Müller presented a living picture, the “Germania”, with Bengalishe Beleuchtung [subdued multicoloured light] and the audience sang “Die Wacht am Rhein”. [Living pictures: The term describes a group of suitably costumed actors or artist’s models, carefully posed and often theatrically lit. Throughout the duration of the display, the people shown do not speak or move. Wikipedia]

An election was held for the Executive of the German Club Edelweiss: C. W. Sutter (1st chairman/ president [Vorsitzender]), Hermann Carl (2nd chairman), A. E. Kunz (1st secretary), W. C. Müller (2nd secretary), John Hagemann (treasurer), Frank Neher (financial advisor), Richard Mecke (guard); Fred. Rippel, Fred. Wagner, Jos. Dittrich (auditing committee); G. Koermann, A. E. Kunz, Rich. Mecke (library committee); G. Koermann, Frank Krämer (auditors). The club now has 53 members. Considering the efforts made by the MLA Rosenroll on behalf of the club for its incorporation it was decided to offer him an honourary presidency.

In response to a lengthy appeal in the Alberta Herold on July 13 a reader from Winnipeg (J. R. Klein for the Executive committee) draws attention to the existence of the Allddeutscher Verband in Saskatchewan and Manitoba which has the same aims as they were described in the letter to the Herold. It is similar to the Allddeutscher Verband in Germany and the National-Bund in the U.S. to which all German groups belong. The alliance gets involved in politics when the rights of Germans are abridged and when it can help the Germans achieve their justified wishes. The reader says that such an association should not be of a political nature because, first of all, Conservatives and Liberals would soon start to fight, and not all needs of the Germans are of a political nature. He suggests that a provincial branch of the Alliance should be founded in Alberta (Gauverband), that it should acknowledge its solidarity with the branches in Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and that all existing German groups in Alberta should join this Alliance. All groups can retain their own bylaws but commit themselves to follow the by-laws of the supra-provincial Alliance in matters of supra-provincial concern.

Johannes Jensen, formerly pastor in Leduc, has assumed the editorship of the Alberta Herold with the current number.

The editor of the Alberta Herold, Gustav Koermann, has decided to run for councilman at the next municipal election. He promises to serve all in their best interests and asks the Germans in East Edmonton to vote for him, the first German candidate in Edmonton.

At a pre-electoral meeting a slate of five candidates for city council was established. Gustav Koermann received the third-highest number of votes (86). All Germans are exhorted to vote for this slate to finally get a German elected, someone who will look after hereto much ignored East Edmonton.

The Alberta Herold hopes that Mr. Buhrer, owner of a shoe store, will be nominated and elected in Strathcona in the next municipal elections.

A letter writer alerts the readers to the municipal elections which will take place on December 3. He hopes that Mr. Swoboda, “ein tüchtiger Deutscher”, who has discharged his responsibilities as mayor very well, will be re-elected.

The new Lutheran Church near Spruce Grove will be consecrated on December 9.

Jacob Mauchle is again a candidate for city council and asks the Germans for their vote.

The German candidates in the municipal elections did not win their seats. Gustav Koermann was sixth with 400 votes behind Gariepy with 565 votes, only 13 votes behind the fifth-placed candidate who was the last one of the top five to be elected to enter city council. In Strathcona F. Buhler was also sixth with 113 votes behind Hulbert with 203 votes. Buhler missed fifth place by two votes. In St. Albert J. Mauchle was elected to city council and, by acclamation, also as school trustee.

During the fiscal year 1905-1906 41,869 homesteads were registered in the Northwest, an increase of 11,050 over the preceding year. Most of them were Americans (12,485). Among the others were Austrians and Hungarians (2,193) and the Germans (1,024). The Alberta Herold estimates, however, that among the Americans, the Austrians and the Russians there were at least as many homesteaders of German origin. Most homesteaders settled in the Regina District (11,944) and the Battleford District (7,365). The Edmonton District followed in third with 4,584 registrations. Calgary followed after Yorkton and registered 2,067 homesteaders. Altogether 12,263 homesteaders registered in Alberta alone.

The newly minted city of Leduc had its first municipal elections. C. W. Gaetz was elected mayor.

Pastor G. Goos from Spruce Grove married Heinrich Schneider and Helene Feuerstein in Rosental, a community near Spruce Grove on the road to White Whale Lake.

Three new members were admitted to the Club. A second story for the current club building will be built by Mr. Rippel for $375. It will house a reading room and two smaller rooms. It is planned to incorporate the Club as a joint stock company, which will then plan the construction of a larger club house.

108. “[Herr S. Swoboda].” Alberta Herold, March 1, 1907, p. 4.

S. Swoboda, the new manager of the Strathcona Brewery (Ochsner having sold it a few months before to group of partners) said that $70,000 worth of improvements in the brewery will be made this year.

109. “[Deutsch-Canadische Landgesellschaft m.b.H.].” Alberta Herold, April 26, 1907, p. 7.

The Deutsch-Canadische Landgesellschaft, head-quartered in Winnipeg, has purchased a block of land near Killam and Sedgewick. It is the largest German real estate company and uses German capital. The company also has sizeable holdings in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

110. “Stoney Plain.” Alberta Herold, April 26, 1907, p. 4.

Hotel Bismarck is the name of the new hotel in Stoney Plain. Edmonton’s Reinhold Matz is the owner.

According to the official harvest report the Leduc district is extremely fertile. It is in second place with an average of 24.5 bushels per acre for wheat, in first place with 31.7 bushels for barley, and in sixth place for oats with 40.9
bushels. [For comparison purposes, the 2011 crop report estimates 49.6 bushels for spring wheat in Alberta, 43.0 bushels for durum wheat, 67.0 bushels for barley and 81.9 bushels for oats].

Fred Madu is the owner of the Royal Hotel in Stony Plain, which now has 32 rooms. An enlargement by a further 32 rooms is being planned.

113. “[Herr Robert Ochsner ...].” Alberta Herold, June 7, 1907, p. 4.

Robert Ochsner, former owner of the Strathcona Brewing and Malting Company, bought 560 acres near Bittern Lake from Captain W.G. Smith. It borders the land previously bought from Staughton. Ochsner now owns 3,000 acres in one piece.

114. “Pincher Creek.” Alberta Herold, June 14, 1907, p. 3.

Letter from a resident of the “German colony” 20 miles southeast of Pincher Creek. There are about 15 Catholic families and 20 bachelors. They had come from Nebraska in the previous four or five years. German Gemütlichkeit and diligence, combined with fertile soil, have made these people into proud farmers (“Gutsbesitzer”). A report on a visit by a bishop who will perform confirmations is described in proud detail.

On July 1 the population of Edmonton celebrated Dominion Day with a large exhibition. There was much to see and do; an estimated 50,000 people may have attended it. Among the highlights was a horse show where Germans from Spruce Grove (Wettlaufer, Spady, Ziegler, P. Göbel) and Stony Plain (Göbel) won many of the top three prizes.

In a few months there will again be municipal elections in Edmonton. The Germans are exhorted to register so that they may be able to vote, and then to vote for the German candidate. In the last election only a dozen votes would have been required to elect a German candidate.

117. “[Die erfolgreiche und beste ...]” Alberta Herold, November 1, 1907, p. 1.

400 Liberal delegates from all over Alberta met in Calgary recently under the leadership of Premier Rutherford in Calgary for their convention. The Germans were represented as follows: Rev. E. Suemper (Calgary), C. Lehrmann (Lacombe), A. Schmid (Wetaskiwin), August Link (Camrose), G.O. Baetz (Fort Saskatchewan), A. Unterschütz (Fort Saskatchewan), Julius Krause (Brüderheim), Israel Umbach (Stony Plain), D. Brox (Spruce Grove), Rev. A. Hager (Edmonton); G. Koermann, R. Binder, H. Sigler, S. Rankin (all from Edmonton).

A German Liberal Association was founded the other day in Brüderheim with about 40 members. Jul. Krause was elected president, S. Kittlitz as vice-president and Val Mohr as secretary, as well as an executive committee of seven members.

The meeting of German-Canadian Liberals a few days ago ended without success. The committee set up to nominate candidates was unable to find volunteers in the German community. Several members in attendance were nominated from the floor, but all declined. Gustav Koermann was repeatedly asked to run, but he declined as well, citing the difficult economic circumstances at the time. Discouraged, the members decided to wait for another occasion to nominate a candidate for council.

Only one of the five candidates for city council to represent East Edmonton was elected (G. S. Armstrong), a great disappointment for the East Enders. Just the top five vote-getters of altogether 14 candidates were to be chosen. No Germans were elected in Strathcona, either.

Description of a visit to the Strathcona Brewery guided by Mr. Schmidt and Mr. Swoboda. The brewery, founded six years ago by Robert Ochsner, has been greatly expanded and can now produce 100 barrels of beer every eight hours.

139. “[Der deutsche Club ‘Edelweiss’ ...].” Alberta Herold, March 6, 1908, p. 4.

The Edelweiss Club organized a masquerade ball recently at which 80 couples participated in all sorts of costumes. The Club building was beautifully decorated, and the orchestra played until 3 a.m. Prizes were awarded for the best costumes.

Mr. Wolff is the new conductor of the Germania Choir replacing Mr. Woysch. Mr. Wolff was conductor of a choir in Germany for a long time, and it is expected that the choir will develop strongly.

141. “Spring Lake von seiner Gründung bis auf den heutigen Tag.” Alberta Herold, March 6, 1908, p. 5.

History of the German settlement at Spring Lake which is located on the rail line from Wetaskiwin to Saskatoon. Most of the German settlers (100 families and 30 singles) are Catholics.

The Germania Choir will hold an extraordinary meeting on March 19, 1908. Everyone is encouraged to join. There is no truth to the rumour that the Choir will be dissolved, on the contrary. [On March 20, 1908 it will be reported that Mr. Carl was elected president of the choir and Mr. Graffunder as vice-president. On March 27 it will be reported that eight ladies joined the choir, and it is hoped that men will sign up, too].

143. “[Die Club Halle ...].” Alberta Herold, March 20, 1908.

F. A. Neher of the Edmonton Bottling Works has now opened a club hall for dances, dinners, public meetings, etc. The dance floor is 60’ by 36’, has a stage and a gallery seating 100. ‘Neher’s Hall’ is located on the northeast corner of Kinistino and Elizabeth, one block north of Jasper.

Laudatory review of the brewery the management of which just recently has been taken over by Mr. Carl Rakov and Paul Pouplier. It uses Alberta grain and hops imported from Bohemia.

Mr. Price, who according to the Alberta Herold, made derisory comments about the foreigners in Canada, has written a letter to the Bulletin and to the Herold in which he repeats the argument that he was being sarcastic with his comments to make fun of the exclusionists. He apologizes if he hurt anyone. The Herold does not believe him and tells him that sarcasm can hurt, too.

Emigration statistics for 1907 issued by the German government showed that 31,698 persons emigrated from Germany in that year, compared to 31,074 in the preceding year. 30,431 persons went to the United States. Posen, Hannover and Bavaria were the main sources of emigrants. 263,615 persons from outside Germany emigrated via German ports, an increase by 37,625 over the preceding year. They were mostly Russians, Hungarians and Austrians.

The Alberta has received a letter from R.A.W. Magnussen, secretary of the Verband Deutscher Vereine in Winnipeg, drawing attention to a recent meeting of delegates from several German groups in Manitoba (Deutsch-Katholischer Verein, Deutsch-Ungarischer Verein, Österreichischer und Deutschrussischer Verein, the Deutsche Zimmermannsunion and the German-Conservative Club) to discuss the establishment of an umbrella organization for the Germans in Manitoba. It is hoped that the Concordia Verein and the Reichsdeutscher Verein will also decide to join such an organization. All delegates had agreed that setting up such an organization would further the cause of the Germans in western Canada and Canada at large. The Alberta Herold endorses this plan because the various groups have different clienteles and purposes, and such an organization would be a strong voice for achieving the overall objective, the cultivation of German language and culture (Deutschum). Germans in the United States have long been united in such strong organizations, and the time has come to unite the Germans in Canada in such a group.

148. “[In einer Extra-Versammlung ...].” Alberta Herold, April 24, 1908, p. 4.

At a special meeting at the Edelweiss Club it was decided to set up a joint stock company, which will take over the club’s property and will try to accelerate the club’s growth by selling shares and, later, putting up larger buildings. The name will be German-Canadian Development Company; it will have a basic capital fund of $10,000. Shares will be five dollars and will only be available to members of the club. The temporary officers of the company are F.A. Neher (president) and H. Carl (secretary-treasurer).

149. “[Auf der Monatversammlung ...].” Alberta Herold, May 1, 1908, p. 8.

At the last meeting of the Executive of the German Choir Germania replacements were elected for Mr. Kiesel and Mr. Mollenhauer, who will leave Edmonton for their homesteads. Mr. Ebert is the treasurer, Mr. Krauel the media librarian, Mrs. Frank Neher is the second secretary and Miss Reif is the second media librarian.

150. “Medicine Hat.—Das Urteil gegen die Träumer.” Alberta Herold, May 15, 1908, p. 5.

The court dismissed all charges against the accused; several had to submit a peace bond. The Alberta Herold now exhorts a Christian mission to teach these people the real Christianity.

The Alberta Herold’s editor, W. Krankenhagen, will travel to southern Alberta and B.C. over the next few weeks to get to know people and accept orders for the Herold.

152. “[Die erst kürzlich gegründete ....].” Alberta Herold, May 29, 1908, p. 4.

The recently founded Zoar-Congregation (Pastor R. Birk) has purchased a lot on Syndicate Avenue and plans to build a church there.

Impressions of Alberta’s scenery and chats with local Germans.

154. “Stony Plain.” Alberta Herold, June 12, 1908, p. 2.

The Conservatives held meetings last week in Spruce Grove and Stony Plain. The Conservative candidate Hyndman told stories about how the evil Liberal government is spending money for the military, how cheaply fishing rights are awarded, etc. The German speakers were Mr. Weidenhammer and Mr. H. Löblich. In Stony Plain about ten Conservatives showed up, including the gentlemen from Spruce Grove.—At the meeting of the Liberals Philip Eberhard resigned from the Executive.

155. “[Der Harmonie Club ...].” Alberta Herold, July 3, 1908, p. 2.

The Harmonie Club has undertaken the task to put together a float with living pictures and ‘scenes from the fatherland’ that will show off German culture in the up-coming historical parade.

156. “[Die Deutsch-Amerikanische Kolonisationsgesellschaft ...].” Alberta Herold, July 3, 1908, p. 3.

The German-American Colonization Company has set up an automobile service between Calgary and the Hand Hill region for the settlers. They plan is to settle some 800 families on homesteads even this year.

Mr. von Hammerstein is currently busy equipping his company for drilling for oil in the north.

158. “[Ein echt gemütliches Familienfest ...].” Alberta Herold, July 17, 1908, p. 6.

On July 9 the German Choir Germania organized a family evening with song and dance in Neher’s Hall on Jasper Avenue East. About a hundred persons attended.—Mr. Wolff, the choir’s conductor, resigned from his position for business reasons.
159. “Brüderheim.” Alberta Herold, July 24, 1908, p. 3.

A resident of Brüderheim is upset about the planned name change for Brüderheim. After all, the village can be proud of its name that it has borne for 15 years. And now some English town council wants to change the name to Bruderheim.

The Alberta Herold has secured the services of a local lawyer, Mr. Delavault, who will answer any reader’s legal questions for free. [The Herold then published the question and the answer in the paper.]

Mr. Price, the teacher in Stony Plain who allegedly—according to the Alberta Herold—had written that foreigners should be excluded from buying land in Canada and who had made various xenophobic remarks, apparently wrote in an article in the Montreal Witness that he admires the German farmers in Stony Plain, wishes that their virtues were part of every Canadian’s character, is convinced that he could not farm as well as the local Germans, and is persuaded that newcomers to Canada are making a real contribution.—The Alberta Herold grudgingly accepts this change of heart and thanks him for expressing his views in such an important newspaper in the East.

According to Canadian statistics 50,324 families came to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta in the last 15 years; they increased the Canadian population by 205,744 persons. Most families came from the U.S. (16,344 families), the British Isles (10,797), Austria-Hungary (16,650), Russia (5,018), and Germany and Holland (1,986 families).

A number of settlers in Berlin have traveled to Calgary to secure a pre-emption for the purchase of a second homestead. [Judging from the context of the news item Berlin seems to be located in the vicinity of Didsbury].

164. “[Herr E. Manz ...].” Alberta Herold, September 18, 1908, p. 6.

Mr. E. Manz opened a grocery and meat market at the corner of Fraser and Heiminck Street.

165. “[Herr Johann Müller ...].” Alberta Herold, September 18, 1908, p. 2.

Mr. Johann Müller opened a blacksmith’s shop on Main Street in Stoney Plain.

Mr. John P. Müller has bought back his old bakery from the current owner.

167. “[Mr. Adam Reif ...].” Alberta Herold, September 18, 1908, p. 6.

Mr. Adam Reif moved his residence and shoemaker’s shop to 516 Kinistino.

The Alberta Herold exuberantly endorses the Honourable Frank Oliver (Liberal) at a meeting of more than 4,000 people in the Thistle Rink. He is the man whom Edmonton and western Canada can thank for the tremendous progress made. Other politician present were the Honourable Rutherford and Mayor McDougall. [A translation of Oliver’s speech follows]. Dr. McIntyre, the Liberal candidate for Strathcona, will hold several meetings to discuss issues of national importance. On October 26 important decisions will be taken.

The University of Alberta was officially opened on Wednesday of the previous week by President Tory. All faculty members were present. 23 students were registered on that day, ten more followed later. It is expected that about 40 students will be enrolled for the winter semester.

170. “[Dr. McIntyre].” Alberta Herold, October 9, 1908, p. 1.

Profile of the Liberal candidate for Strathcona, Dr. Wilbert McIntyre.

171. “[Wm. Liefke ...].” Alberta Herold, October 9, 1908, p. 1.
Wm. Liefke set up a butcher shop and a dining room for farmers in Strathcona, opposite of the old haymarket.

A German Liberal meeting is planned for Stony Plain on October 20.

About 300 persons attended the last concert of the Germania Choir. It was a smashing success.

On October 25 a political meeting for the Germans in Morinville will be held.

175. “Die deutsche Versammlung in Riversides.” Alberta Herold, October 23, 1908, p. 3.

In comparison with the very poorly attended Conservative meeting in Calgary’s Riverside a week ago (20 persons present), the Liberal meeting was a huge success. The speakers were Mr. Eschelmann, S. Jones, Mr. R. Neugebauer and Mr. Karl Tetzel. A spirited discussion followed with the few Conservatives present at this meeting.

A new educational institution will be opened on Monday, the Alberta Art School. Professor H. M. Schneider, a recent young German immigrant, will be in charge of the artistic direction.

Extensive review of the Liberals’ accomplishments during their time in office and an urgent appeal to all Germans to vote for their Liberal candidate. Endorsement of all Liberal candidates for the Calgary Dominion elections, in particular Dr. Stewart. [He will come in in second place].

178. “[Der deutsche Gesangverein ...].” Alberta Herold, October 30, 1908, p. 3.

The Germania Choir now is under the direction of conductor Chisholm from the Alberta College of Music.

Mr. Oppertshäuser is a hardware store owner in Stony Plain.

The Liberals have won Canada-wide as well as in Alberta (6 Liberals, 1 Conservative in Calgary). Frank Oliver is likely to win by 2,000 votes over Hyndman. In some of the German districts the Liberal candidate won in St. Albert, Poplar Lake, Horse Hills, Morinville, Stony Plain, Riviere qui Barre, Brüderheim and Josephsburg. In the City of Strathcona the Conservative Day has a slim majority, but in the farming districts Dr. McIntyre won decisively, e.g., Otoskwan, Rabbit Hill, Leduc, Wetaskiwin, Camrose, Wainwright, Saron and Telfordville. In Millet the vote was 20 to 20, with an independent getting 33 votes. McIntyre has a lead of about 1,000 votes.

Pastor Clemens Hoyler, who has been working for 12 years locally with members of the Moravian Brethren, was made a bishop at a synod in Poland on September 13, 1908. He is the first bishop of the church in Canada.

Last week a four-page German paper, the Deutsch-Canadier, was published for the first time in Edmonton. It stands for and will support Conservative principles. Mr. Joseph Schuster is the manager and president. The Alberta Herold wishes the paper much success in the hope that it will support the interest of Germans in western Canada.

Herr Otto P. Woysch, a former Leduc pastor, has assumed the editorship of the Deutsch-Canadier.

There are 12 candidates for Edmonton’s municipal election—but not a single German among them!

J. Mauchle was elected by acclamation as councilman and school trustee in St. Albert.

The German-Liberal Association of Stony Plain held a general meeting on December 5. President G. Pempeit opened the meeting. The following were elected and added to the committee: Dan Brox (Spruce Grove), Israel Umbach and Philipp Schütz (Stony Plain), Johann Ph. Fuhr (Manly) and Conrad Clamm (Golden Spike).

In the report on the elections held by the members of Edmonton’s German-Liberal Association, two names had been omitted: Phil. Senger, R. Binder. The Board now has the following members: M. Albuschies, J. Biersch, R. Binder, J. Deutsch, W. Dräge, F. Goebel, F and M. Falkenberg, A. Grieser, J. Hagmann, G.W.E. Höhme, A. Klappstein, Wm. Lessing, K Lietz, G. Müller, R.F. Matz, A. Mohr, P. Pietz, V. Schienbein, Adolf Stürmer, A. and J. Schneider, E. Schulz, Ph. Senger, W. Stubbe, E. Zellmar. The Association has 132 members.

R. von Hodenberg, who had previously studied law in Winnipeg, has accepted a position with the well-known law firm Ewing and Eagar, to continue his training in law. He speaks German.

Editorial praising the achievements of the Liberal Government over the last three years and encouragement of all Germans to support the Liberal Party over the next four years. How lucky Albertans are: no direct or indirect taxes, fast and efficient construction of roads and railroads, taxes on land speculation, etc.

Anyone who has been in Canada for three years should naturalize himself to be able to enjoy the rights of Canadian citizenship. Applications are free and may be made to R. Binder, A. Hager Jr., G. W. E. Höhme, G. Koermann and W. Stubbe.

G. H. Foerster was elected to town council in Stony Plain.

199. “[Unser Redakteur ...].” Alberta Herold, March 5, 1909, p. 8.

The Alberta Herold’s editor, W. Krankenhagen, will return this week to Hannover where he will take over his father’s leather wholesale company.

Körmann sharply criticizes a certain Otto P. Woysch, the editor of the Deutsch-Canadier, for his attacks against Pastor Hager, who is known to everyone as an honourable man, and recounts several incidents where the man—who sometimes calls himself Freiherr-Rotteck—showed deplorable character, once having been so drunk in Edmonton while he was pastor in Leduc that the police had to be called. Körmann says he refrains from recounting other unfortunate events in Mr. Woysch’s life.

Gustav Koermann resigned from his position as president of the Edelweiss Club. His successor is Roland Matz; Johann Hagmann is the second president.

The following were elected as officers of the German Liberal Association of Strathcona: E. Martin (president), Gust. Jordek (vice-president), A. Reske (secretary), Board: L. Regner, John Schmidt, Carl Formounskee, J. Karet.

The Liberals won 34 seats, the Conservatives 3, the Socialists 1, and there was one independent. Elections in Peace River and Athabasca will be held later. According to the Herold, the German votes made a huge difference. All Liberal candidates in areas won where Germans reside.

It is reported that Freiherr von Hammerstein will be a candidate in the next election in the Athabasca District.

The Alberta Herold will have a tent at the exhibitions in Edmonton (June 29 to July 2) and Calgary (July 5 to 10) which may serve as the home base for the many thousands of German visitors to be expected for these important events. Visitors should look for the sign “Alberta Herold”—Deutsche Zeitung für Canada.

With this issue of the Alberta Herold the founder and original editor of the Alberta Herold (Koermann) will resume his responsibilities as the editor after the departure of Mr. Pohl, the editor for a few months. H.A. Rasch now is the manager.

Mr. P. M. Schubert has opened a real estate office at 634 First Street, the Northern Colonization Agency.

The following Germans have been appointed to offices in Alberta: Notaries public: August Michael Thurn (Walsh), E. C. Locke (Stettler), T. J. Pulkrabek (Pozerville); justices of the peace: J. F. D. Barschel (Irvine), Fred Kuhnke (Bismarck), T. J. Pulkrabek (Pozerville), W. C. Miller (Claresholm); commissioners: Peter Schwedtfeger (Stettler), Alfred Brusso (Neapolis), J. F. Reynolds (Claresholm), W. Weidrich (Clyde), Otto Richter (Loveland), John H. Umbach (Spruce Grove), John Haering (Walsh), C. H. Stauffer (Staufer), J. F. Kramer (Taber), L. C. Eckenfelder (Trochu).
The German translation of the by-laws of the United Farmers of Alberta are available from Mr. A von Mielecki in Calgary.

A meeting will be held on July 11 in Dawson’s Hall in St. Albert to discuss a reorganization of the German Club St. Albert-Morinville.

In absence of the Club’s two presidents Mr. Wilhelm Bökenföhr was elected as the new president. The meeting was well-attended, but it is hoped that the Morinville Germans will show up at the next meeting as well.

After the sale of the Grand View Hotel owned by H. Sigler, Robert F. Klein took over the management there. H. Möller, who has been the manager in the Edelweiss Club, will assume the position of chief bartender.

L. Deggendorfer opened a German restaurant at 141 Queens Avenue.

On July 11, 1908 the general meeting of the German-Liberal Association took place in Stony Plain. The president, Mr. Pempeit, conducted the meeting which was also attended by many English-speaking persons. Among the speakers were Mr. Koermann, John McPherson, the current MLA and Mr. Marshall. Among the issues discussed were road construction, the school question, timber limits and the tariff question.

The congregation of St. John’s Evangelical Lutheran Church on Kinistino Avenue (Pastor Harms) decided to erect a new church. The current one (26 by 40 ft.) has become much too small. A 30 by 50 addition will be built including a steeple, and a basement will be added as well for the school, meetings, etc. The cost will be about $5,000.

Advertisement. Paul Wagner in Mewassin had Angora goats and billy goats for sale as defence against prairie wolves.

A new ‘German Restaurant’ was opened on Elisabeth Street opposite the market square. Mr. and Mrs. Niclas are the owners.

The Alberta Government has published a German translation of its school legislation, a move welcomed by the Alberta Herold.

At a recent annual meeting the Edmonton Hebrew Association elected the following officers: Wm. Diamond (president), H.B. Kline (vice-president), A.H. Goldberg (secretary), J. S. Berkman (treasurer), D. Shugarman (1st trustee), D. Feinstein (2nd trustee), H.L. Eppstein (3rd trustee).

Impassioned appeal to German parents to have their children learn German in addition to English as it is a “Kultursprache”.

Mr. P. M. Schubert (Edmonton) was appointed notary public; George Oberthür (Brüderheim) may issue marriage licenses, and Israel Umbach (Stony Plain) was appointed as assistant to the sheriff.

Mr. Reinhold Matz bought another hotel again, the Cameron House at the south end of the Strathcona Bridge.

James A. Douglas was nominated by a meeting of the Liberals in the Strathcona District. A. S. Rosenroll came in in third place. The Alberta Herold thinks it is a shame that the English-speaking citizens won’t even vote for a “foreigner” if he is effective and experienced.

Wm. Krankenhagen has replaced H.A. Rasch as the Alberta Herold’s manager.

W. Krankenhagen, who was the Alberta Herold’s manager/editor before he went to Germany, has returned to Alberta after a six-month stay in Germany. Germany is orderly, wealthy and strong; it’s like a majestic yet gentle river, while Alberta is the mountain creek cascading joyfully over the rocks. He is happy to be back in Edmonton and marvels at the many changes that have taken place in Edmonton and Alberta in such a short period of time.

Madame Frieda Langendorff from Berlin’s Royal Opera will give a guest performance in Edmonton on December 17.

The New Year’s celebration organized by the Germania Choir was a total success. Krankenhagen thanks the owner of the German Restaurant (Market Square) and the sponsors Jos. Hehsdörfer (sausage maker), H.B. Kline (jeweler) and W. Sugarman (clothier).

Mr. Walter Steins will offer German classes for adults twice a week in the German Baptist Church.

Among the officials elected at their last meeting were A. von Mielecki (Calgary) and Emil Griesbach (Gleichen).

At a recent meeting the Edelweiss Club decided to reduce the membership fee from $15 to $5 in order to give all honourable Germans the chance to become a member. On January 27 the members celebrated the Kaiser’s birthday with patriotic and other speeches and singing. President R. Matz opened the meeting, C. F. Brandt presided over the event.

The Edmonton Philharmonic Society, which endeavors to support music and singing in the city, was founded recently. S. Harms and W. Krankenhagen are on the Board.

Wilhelm Krankenhagen protests against the smear campaign directed at him by the Deutsch-Canadier which is based on anonymous letters and lies. He would be willing to talk to a “commission” consisting of a representative of Mr. Pohl, one of his own and a third on whom both parties can agree.

258. “[Unsere Freunde ...].” Alberta Herold, April 14, 1910, p. 4.

Mr. Wilhelm Gellhorn opened a barbershop and poolroom on Norwood Boulevard.

In response to Mrs. Bruegmann’s invitation to German housewives to compile a German-Canadian cookbook seven women left their names; there are others who did not want their names mentioned.

Elections at the Edelweiss Club took place on Monday. The following were elected: R. Matz (president), J.J. Mohr (vice-president), H Hermann Carl (secretary), H. Kiesel (financial secretary); G. Koermann, J. Hagmann and F. Neher. As a consequence of the election eight members resigned their membership (C. Brandt, W. Kahler, W. Krankenhagen, H. Mecke, W. Mollenhauer, P. Schneider, P.M. Schubert, W. Steins). Matz had 23 votes, his opponent W. Steins had 10.

261. “[Die German Development Co. ...].” Alberta Herold, July 28, 1910, p. 4.

The German Development Company, whose owners are German capitalists, together with the Canadian Northern Railway own large areas with coal deposits on the Brazeau northwest of Edmonton. Martin Nordegg, the company’s manager, announced that $2,000,000 will be invested in the coal fields in the next 18 months. At the moment there are 50 workers on the site.

G. Springer, formerly owner of Springers Hotel in Koblenz, recently opened a boarding house at 631 5th Street.

There is a rumour going around in English newspapers that Kaiser Wilhelm not only owns shares in the German Development Co., which is working with a capital of $7,000,000 in the Brazeau coalfields, but is also a vice-president. The president is William McKenzie, the president of the CNR; Martin Nordeck [sic] is the general manager.

Review of Strathcona’s progress over the years and future prospects. There are two German churches there, St. John’s [actually Trinity Lutheran Church] (pastor Th. Hartig) and the Brüdergemeinde (Pastor Schulz). Some of the stores recommended to the readers are: Albert Kales’ German shoe store and shoemaker, Strathcona Investment Co., a well-known German real estate company, Wankel and Barr’s hardware store; Wankel is well-known German. Wm Wensel, who has had a grocery and general store for years and is now engaged in enlarging his business.

Dr. McGibbon, general practitioner and obstetrician, studied medicine at Vienna’s Allgemeines Krankenhaus and speaks German.

A front-page column, unsigned but presumably written by the new editor, Heinrich Becker, criticizes the German government for making it difficult for Germans to emigrate. There is plenty of room for German settlers in Canada. Canada is an ideal country for those wanting to make a new life for themselves. Also, the German-Canadians will naturally still have an emotional bond with their home country, and at the same time living in Canada and being loyal Canadian citizens will also reduce any potential friction between Germany and England. [This is the first of many opinions and columns in which the Alberta Herold will emphasize the right of German-Canadians for their rightful place in Canadian society.]

Announcement of a new section for the Alberta Herold, the Farmer-Freund. It styles itself as “Ratgeber für Feld und Haus”.

The Alberta Herold introduced a column in which readers may post their opinions on any subject.

270. “[In Badens Hauptstadt ...].” Alberta Herold, October 27, 1910, p. 1.

Column about the Allddeutscher Verband which is just celebrating its 20th anniversary. The Herold has a copy of the Allddeutsche Blätter summarizing the convention’s proceedings. It contains several speeches about the status of the Germans in Hungary, demands regarding the Polish question, the expansion of the German army and others. The Alberta Herold reprints a few excerpts without comments, but the intent is obvious. It also addresses the ‘German peril’ (Deutsche Gefahr); obviously this smear campaign is intended to appeal to the masses and prejudice them against Germany. Only a complete balance of power between England and Germany can lead to understanding and peace, nothing else. Germany must build up its navy to be able to resist England’s advances and threats.

Description of Pastor Friedrich Müller’s efforts and accomplishments in resettling Germans from Volhynia in the 1890s.

A column signed by “B.” (presumably Becker) reprints an excerpt from the Allddeutsche Blätter which rails against by certain professors’ attempts to set up an association for international understanding. They complain about the armament race and the build-up of the navy, but it is clear to everyone that only the strongest nation will win in the battle for international understanding. They also criticize the rising nationalism in Germany, but forget that Germany came late to be unified, and it makes sense for all Germans—in the Reich and abroad—to take pride in and cultivate a—fully justified—feeling of national pride. World peace from a position of weakness? Never. B. adds that this is exactly how he feels. What the Germans are missing is national self-confidence, which of course is not opposed to world peace.

The secretary of the recently founded Deutscher Krankenunterstützungsverein, G. Zink, is inviting all Germans who want to maintain their German language and culture to join the association. The next meeting will be held on December 5 in Liefke’s Hall on the corner of Boyle and Kinistino.

The C. Planitz Co. at 555 First Street now is the sole seller of lots in Alexandra Park. In June 1911 they moved to 281 Jasper Ave. East.

277. “[Ein neues deutsches Restaurant ...].” Alberta Herold, 1911.

E. M. Petereit in Leduc is the representative for the Gas Traction Company Ltd. in northern Alberta. With 30 horse-power it may be used for all kinds of heavy work.

280. “[Am Montag war ...].” Alberta Herold, January 11, 1911, p. 3.

At the recent municipal election in Brüderheim three Germans were elected as councilmen (Adam Krause, L.J. Sentner and W. Davies). It is very regrettable, complains the Alberta Herold, that in an almost purely German town like Brüderheim the Germans are in the minority on town council.

The following were elected as officers of the Deutscher Krankenunterstützungsverein: W. Liefke (president), R. Binder (vice-president), F. Dederer (secretary), Gottl. Müller (treasurer), Gustav Krause (financial secretary). Board: Johann Deutsch, Gustav Krause, Valentin Senger. Auditors: Heinrich Becker, Gustav Koermann, Valentin Senger.

The Alberta Herold complains about being called a “Friedensstörer” (disturber of the peace), a “Brotneider” (a person who is envious of another person’s success) and “Scheelsüchtiger” (a person wallowing in suspicion) by the editor of another German newspaper who thinks he is being victimized. Of course, he started it. According to the Herold, he had sent out a letter to thousands all over Alberta, except in Edmonton, in which he distorted facts and tried to disparage the Alberta Herold and its staff. In order to put things right the Alberta Herold chose to defend itself publicly in a column a week ago, which is more honourable than sending out defamatory letters behind the Alberta Herold’s backs.

An evening of speeches and entertainment will be organized by the Deutscher Krankenunterstützungverein on January 30, 1911 in Gustav Krause’s Royal Hall on the corner of Kinistino and Boyle.

The former German Choir Germania will organize a masked ball in G. Krause’s Royal Hall.

Members of the former German Choir Germania (H. Kiesel, H. Karl, R. Matz, G. Koermann, H. Müller, H.A. Rasch, F. Neher, J. Krötsh, H. Gerdung) would like the public to know that the former Choir has absolutely nothing to do with a masked ball that will be held later this month. They will, however, organize a masked ball on February 22.

The following officers of the Edelweiss Club were elected at the last meeting: J. Mohr (president, succeeding R. Matz), Wm. Stubbe (vice-president), the hardware store owner Paul Werner (secretary), Hans Kiesel (manager and financial secretary). The post of treasurer is yet to be filled.

287. “[Ein interessantes Bild …].” Alberta Herold, June 1911.

Statistics from Edmonton’s Immigration Hall in May 1911 show an interesting distribution. Altogether 668 immigrants arrived. English (125), Irish (30), Scots (49), Germans (40), Scandinavians (51), French and Belgians (21), Americans (125), Canadians (12), Welsh (28), colored Americans (4), Dutch (50), Hungarians (5), Russians (125), Finns (3). 227 were farmers, farm labourers (64), unskilled workers (76), merchants (18), female servants (2), miners (4), machinists (11), carpenters (26), gardeners (2), chefs (2). Women and children without occupation/profession: 236. 523 came across the ocean, 188 from the U.S. and 12 from eastern Canada.

The Alberta Herold derides the four-page monthly paper which arrives irregularly. The last issue had an attack on Heinrich Becker, the Herold’s editor, because he went to Germany on behalf of German immigration to Canada. It is signed G.L. The Alberta Deutsche Zeitung wants us to believe that this a letter from a reader, but G. stands for Gustav and L. stands for Lügner (lier).

289. “[An Whyte Avenue …].” Alberta Herold, July 1911.

The Bijou Theater was opened on Whyte Avenue in Strathcona.

The Edelweiss Club sold the lot and club building for $6,000. It is not known yet where the club’s new home will be.

The Dominion election will be held on September 21, 1911. You may vote if you get your naturalization papers by August 25. Apply at P.M. Schubert, 252 A Namayo Ave.

293. “‘Der Nordwesten’ antwortet.” Alberta Herold, August 17, 1911, p. 8.

The Alberta Herold notes that the Nordwesten is upset about the charges of political interference made by the Herold and the Saskatchewan Courier, but still hasn’t told its readers that it is now a Conservative paper. Will the editor, who until now has written from the liberal point of view, have to change his political stripes?

294. “[Mit Herrn Müller …].” Alberta Herold, August 17, 1911, p. 4.

The Alberta Herold is encouraging Mr. Müller from the Edmonton Bottling Works to stand for election to city council, but he has declined.

Mr. Krankenhagen has returned from his stay in Germany and his work at the Agricultural Exhibition in Cassel.

All German Liberals in Edmonton are encouraged to attend a meeting on September 2 in Neher’s Hall.

The Alberta Herold now has a new masthead. The Herold perceives itself as the connection between the old country and Canada; that is the meaning of the symbolism portrayed by having oak leaves and maples leaves adorn the letters in the newspaper head.

298. “[In Neher’s Halle ...].” Alberta Herold, September 7, 1911, p. 4.

Last Saturday a meeting took place in Neher’s Hall that was attended by over 200 Germans. The founding of a German Liberal Association was decided. The following officers were elected: 1st Honourary President: Hon. Frank Oliver, 2nd Honourary President: Pastor A. Hager, President: R. Binder, 1st Vice-President: Philipp Senger, 2nd Vice-President: S. Harms, Secretary: Wilhelm Krankenhagen, Treasurer: Gottl. Müller. Members of the Executive Committee were: v. Hammerstein, Aug. Kappe, Val. Senger, W. Steins, G. Zink, Joh. Schneider, C. Pfeifle, O. Pietz, H. Becker, John May, Paul Werner, F. Goebel sen. and W. Mollenhauer.

According to official statistics 25,534 persons emigrated from Germany in 1910. Of those, 22,773 went to the U.S., 460 to Canada, 353 to Brazil, 793 to Argentina, 931 to the rest of the Americas, 16 to Africa and 128 to Australia. Data for emigration to German protectorates are not given.

The following appointments of Germans have been made: Commissioner of oaths: Joseph Schuster (Calgary), Ernst Paul Schopper (Calgary), Gottlieb Meyers (Sunny Bend), Karl Tetzel (Calgary). Marriage license commissioner: Jno. H. Umbach (Spruce Grove). Game warden: F. Carl Schneider (Rosenheim), O.W. Hüppelhäuser (Lockhart), F. Kuhnke (Ferintosh).

The Liberal government has been defeated; the Conservative Robert Borden will be the new Prime Minister. In Alberta the Liberals gained two seats, however, mainly because they were in favor of the reciprocity agreement which the Liberals wanted to sign. This government will never have the confidence of the West because it is supported by the interests of the Ontario moneybags and does not care for Western farmers who would gain from trading freely with the U.S. The Conservatives’ argument that with this agreement Canada would be separated from the rest of the Empire is simply ridiculous. In most German districts of Alberta the Liberals achieved the majority.

Mr. von Hammerstein of Fort McMurray was appointed commissioner of oaths. Jacob Miller of Stony Plain was appointed as justice of the peace.

303. “[Gotthold Springer ...].” Alberta Herold, October 5, 1911, p. 4.

Gotthold Springer was employed in the kitchen and the cellar of the finest hotels in England, France, Germany, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland, Austria, Egypt, Palestine, Algiers, Canary Island from 1881 to 1896. From 1896 to 1907 Mr. Springer was the owner of the well-known Hotel Coblenz. After work on a Rhine luxury boat he came to Edmonton with his family to work in the hotel business. He is now the owner of Springer’s Home Apartments. His wife was born in England; she assists him with running the hotel.

304. “[Herr Redmann ...].” Alberta Herold, October 26, 1911, p. 4.

Mr. Redmann has purchased the German Bookstore from Mrs. Brügmann.

The Alberta Herold points out the many and varied natural resources in Alberta which will support millions for many years in the future. Right now it is difficult to exploit them because of the high transportation costs. The Liberal government did much to increase competition in the railroads, which has led to an expansion of the network, but more needs to be done. It singles out in particular the oil sands near Fort McMurray (Athabasca Oil Company), the coal fields in the Brazeau area, the forests west of the city and the sandstone deposits.

Clausen and Heinzel were general contractors at 460 Clara Street.

History and description of Edmonton’s streetcar network.

308. “[Der deutsche Club Edelweiss...].” Alberta Herold, January 4, 1912, p. 4.

The Edelweiss Club recently purchased a lot on Bellamy Street near Syndicate for $2,850. Plans are for the construction of an ample club house in the spring.

A masked ball will be held on January 25 in Neher’s Hall at 802 Jasper Ave East. Since Edmonton has not had such events for quite some time this is most welcome. Admission is $1.00 for men, free admission for women.

The Hon. Cross’ meetings have been very successful. At a meeting on Monday, chaired by Gustav Koermann, Mr. Krankenhagen gave a speech defending Mr. Cross against libellous accusations by a certain Edmonton newspaper. At another meeting in Ross Flat there were few Germans present, and therefore the speech by Pastor Hager had to be cancelled.

Mr. Königsfeld, who studied music in Leipzig and Berlin, offers his services as a violin teacher at 1829 Syndicate Avenue.

The members of the Germania Choir celebrated the Kaiser’s birthday on Wednesday in Mr. Koermann’s house in a patriotic manner with singing and speechifying.

313. “[Ein recht schöner Erfolg...].” Alberta Herold, February 1, 1912, p. 4.

The masked ball was quite successful although not too many people showed up.

At the annual meeting of the shareholders in the Alberta Herold Publishing Company the following were elected unanimously: W. Krankenhagen (president), W. Stubbe (secretary), Hans Mecke (treasurer), Dr. Hislop (auditor, “Beisitzer”).

Apparently a number of “citizens” lodged a complaint against Constable Schreyer because he cannot speak English properly and is not of English birth. But the head of the police rejected these complaints and said he wanted to keep Schreyer because he was a good officer. The Alberta Herold thinks it is an outrage that in the Canadian West that has been opened mostly by “foreigners” and not by pure-bred Britshers such an idea should even be entertained.

Alfred L. Marks is a candidate for school trustee in Greater Edmonton (he will be unsuccessful having received 539 votes compared to Ramsey with 1,521).

Philip Mohr and S. Holowach have a real estate company, Northern Alberta Realty Co., at 531 Kinistino. They will also lend money and insure against fire.

Edmonton’s Conservatives have chosen their delegates for their convention in Calgary. There is not one German among them.

John Hagmann, one of the best-known Germans in the province, sold his property on Alberta Avenue north of the Hudson Bay Reserve for $850,000. 14 years ago he had bought this—way out in the sticks—farmland for $10 per acre.

Hager and Richardson had a real estate company and insurance agency at 39 Jasper Ave. E.

Val. Senger and Ric. Binder opened a real estate company and employment agency at 634 Kinistino, the International Realty and Employment Agency.

A. Reske was the owner of the Royal Hotel in Wetaskiwin.

323. “[Auf der letzten Versammlung ...].” Alberta Herold, April 28, 1912, p. 4.

Members of the Edelweiss Club elected the following officers for the coming year: J. J. Mohr (president), Wm. Stubbe (vice-president), P. Schmidt (2nd secretary), H. W. E. Kutscher (financial secretary). Directors: Bruno Harder, Henry Moeller, Carl Müller. Candidates for the secretary’s position were H. Mecke and W. Krankenhagen.

The Kales Brothers were the owners of the Mundare Hotel in Mundare.

325. “[Der deutsche Club ...].” Alberta Herold, June 11, 1912, p. 4.

The German Club sold its land on Bellamy Street to William Stubbe for $32,000 and purchased another parcel on Morris Street near Syndicate Avenue for $2,000. Construction of a new club house is expected soon.

326. “[Eine echt deutsche Feier ...].” Alberta Herold, June 12, 1912, p. 4.

The “Jungdeutschland Verein” will organize a celebration of the 100th anniversary of the wars of liberation and the 25th anniversary of Kaiser Wilhelm II.’s years in office in the Edelweiss Club at 216 Morris on June 14, 1913. Tickets are 50 cents for men, women and children are free.

Mr. von Hammerstein has been able to interest investors to build a railroad from the U.S. border to Fort McMurray via Peace River Crossing. The latter section, if realized, will be called “Alberta Peace River and Eastern Railroad Co.”

The Alberta Herold moved its print shop and office to 109 Queens Avenue from 272 Elizabeth, just a few blocks away.

A new Baptist church will be constructed on Kinistino Avenue between Morris and Heiminck Streets. It will likely cost between $30,000 and $35,000.

The owners of a new real estate agency, Capital Land Company, are William Stubbe and Hans Mecke. The company has its own building block at 167 Queens Ave., which was built by the Klausen and Klukas Company.

The well-known Star Cash Grocery, which used to belong to Mr. F. Schattner, has been purchased by Syme and Wagner. Mr. Wagner is a native Edmontonian and asks all Germans to give their store a try. It is located at 449 Namayo Avenue.

Mr. R. Matz has returned from the North where he had traveled as the vice-president of the Fort McKay Oil and Asphalt Co. Ltd. He thinks that the company will be able to drill for large oil wells as early as this year. The tar and asphalt has been used for paving in Edmonton and Calgary and has withstood the strongest challenges. The seams are 300 to 400 feet thick. The only thing that’s needed is transportation. But this situation will be ameliorated by the construction of two railroads, one of which will perhaps reach the area in the fall of 1913.

The seamstress M. Larsch at 776 Fraser Avenue is also prepared to mend clothes.

The membership of the Deutscher Krankenunterstützungsverein decided unanimously at a meeting in mid-June to dissolve the organization. Repayment of dues will begin shortly.

335. “[Die neue deutsche …].” Alberta Herold, August 1, 1912, p. 4.

The new German Hardstone Brick Co. on the Southside is now in operation and produces 30,000 and 40,000 bricks per day. All required machinery was imported from Germany.

336. “[In Deutschland staatlich geprüfte …].” Alberta Herold, August 8, 1912, p. 5.

Gertrud Harder of 1929 Syndicate Avenue, who received her training in Germany and has experience in the Edmonton Hospital, recommends herself as a nurse in private homes.

Mr. Gotthold Springer is now the Canadian general representative for “Kaiser Friedrich Brunnen,” a German mineral water.

The owners of the Strathcona Brewery, Mr. Geiler and Mr. Schmidt, are planning an addition on their lot on Saskatchewan Avenue in Strathcona. It will cost about $125,000.

Wilhelm Krankenhagen has resigned from his position with the Alberta Herold Publishing Company as he is now a part owner of the Capital Land Co. He became editor in 1907, and after a short stay in Germany he became the manager of the company. In 1910 the share holders elected him as president of the company, an honourary position which he still holds. The editorship and management of the company are now both in the hands of Heinrich Becker who has served as editor for the last two and a half years. Signed by Heinrich Becker with “Deutschen Gruss”.

August Hatelt was a blacksmith in Brüderheim with many years of experiences with machinery.

341. “[Der Club Edelweisss…].” Alberta Herold, October 3, 1912, p. 4.

The German Club Edelweiss finally opened its new club house at 216 Morris Street last Wednesday after some considerable delay. The occasion was well attended and everyone had a good time.

Even without engaging in wild speculation it is still possible to make quite a bit of money with land sales and purchases in Edmonton. 10 years ago Mr. Schmode was offered the entire block between Short and Gallagher and Namayo and Kinistino for $15.00. He hesitated, but two years later he bought two lots on Short Street for $110 each. On one of them he just finished building a house worth $2,600, and he has an offer for $6,000 on the other lot.

343. “[Die Anzahl …].” Alberta Herold, October 24, 1912, p. 4.

Mr. Wilhelm Vogel is a candidate for the upcoming municipal elections. He had been an alderman in Strathcona, but then did not want to stand for re-election. The Alberta Herold endorses him enthusiastically.

351. “[Mr. Oskar Brinewarth ...]” Alberta Herold, December 5, 1912, p. 4.

Mr. Oskar Bringewarth is the new manager of the Edelweiss Club.

G. F. Klukas Co. is a real estate company at 363 Whyte Avenue. In February 1914 they will have lots for sale at Lake St. Joseph on the train line from Edmonton to Camrose.

353. “[Im höchsten Grade bedauerlich ...].” Alberta Herold, December 12, 1912, p. 4.

Unfortunately Mr. Vogel did not get elected in the municipal elections. When will the Germans ever stick together?!

He did not even get most votes on the southside, formerly Strathcona, where he worked and was on council.

A masked ball together with a celebration of Kaiser Wilhelm’s birthday will be held at the Edelweiss Club on January 27, 1913. There will be prizes for the best ladies’ costumes. Admission for men is $1.00, ladies are free. The committee consists of C. Klausen, W. Schmidt and O. Bringewatt [sic].

The P.M. Schubert real estate company has lots for sale in Athabasca Landing, the metropolis of the North.

The Alberta Herold criticizes the founders of the newly organized “Deutsch-Canadischer Bund” in Winnipeg for not having told the other ca. dozen German papers in Canada about this event, but it did declare the Nordwesten as the official organ of the Bund. Its arrogance is known, and therefore the unification of the Germans in Canada will suffer.

357. “[Am letzten Sonnabend ...].” Alberta Herold, June 10, 1913, p. 4.

Report on the celebration of the 100th anniversary and the 25th anniversary of Emperor Wilhelm II.’s years in office at the Jungdeutschland Vereinigung. Mr. Gell opened the celebration with a speech and gave Mr. Val Gellmann the banner dedicated to the association. Mr. Krankenhagen then talked about the main events taking place from 1813 to 1913. The following members spoke and participated in the events: Moser, Krankenhagen, Becker, Grell, Klatz (?), and others. A congratulatory telegram was sent to the German Emperor. There is a youth group, and the association will have a new home soon. The evening ended with an enjoyable get-together.

358. “Columbia Haus.” Alberta Herold, June 12, 1913, p. 3.

Heinrich Rewe (?) has a rooming house and restaurant at 305 Queens Ave.

Hofmann-Harms have extensive land holdings for sale in Fort George, B.C. They have an office at 421A Namayo and in Fort George.

C.W. Schickendanz was the managing director of Installations Limited at 1053 Namayo.

Paul Kar[r]er studied dentistry in Switzerland, Russia and Philadelphia. He is now working in the office of Dr. G. J. Hope.

Pastor Hager has now moved permanently to Fort George, B.C. to organize the establishment of a German Baptist Church there. He had been traveling back and forth between Edmonton and Fort George for several years.

The next meeting of the Jungdeutschland Association will take place on June 30 in the home of the Association, 294 St. Placide Street in Strathcona.

364. “[Am Montag ...].” Alberta Herold, July 10, 1913, p. 4.

The second meeting of the Jungdeutschland Verein took place on June 30 in its home in St. Placide Street. After the business part Mr. Vieweger and Mr. Krankenhagen gave some humorous presentations. Mrs. Vieweger talked at length about her bike trip through southern Alberta, describing in detail the scenery and the people. Mr. A. Halbach, who withdrew from the Board because of lack of time, was replaced by Mr. Val Gellmann. It was decided to have a membership meeting once a month. A picnic is planned for July 16 in the Tipton Block.

D.H. Borcherding opened a German Lending Library and Bookstore at 722 Namayo Avenue. Books may be borrowed for up to 11 days. The first book is 50 cents, more books are 5 cents each.

The Rasch-Miller & Co. Real Estate Company has 13 years of experience. It is located at 318 Jasper East.

367. “[Die Polizei von Edmonton ...].” Alberta Herold, July 18, 1913, p. 3.

Hans Hering at 38 Short Street is a painter and decorator.

The Bund der Deutschen, the Edelweiss Club and the Jungdeutschland Verein will organize a picnic on July 28, 1914 at 2 p.m. at Forest Heights. Everyone is welcome. Drinks will be available for sale at the site, but all are encouraged to bring their own “Fressalien”. [nosh].

369. “[Die Bautätigkeit ...].” Alberta Herold, July 31, 1913, p. 4.

In the last few months construction activity in Edmonton—just like almost everywhere in North America—has declined. But some German “oldtimers” continue to show confidence in Edmonton. John Hagmann is putting up a four-story hotel-like building at the corner of Fraser and Picard. J. P. Springer is his architect. Wilhelm Stubbe is building a top-of-the-line apartment house on Bellamy Street. It will have three stories and will be constructed entirely of brick. Mr. Pietz and Mr. Schöffels are the contractors.

The P.M. Schubert Real Estate Company is opening a branch in Strathcona under the management of Otto Zwarg.

371. “[Allen Deutschen ...].” Alberta Herold, September 24, 1914, p. 3.

The tailor Conrad Jordan makes made-to-measure suits etc. at 821 Namayo Ave.

A southern Alberta newspaper reported on September 11, 1914 that Paul Clemens, a German citizen, had been arrested by the Mounted Police. They claim that he had papers on himself from the German Consul in New York which told him to take certain steps. He is obviously a spy. It is believed that the man was finally released, but the local population feels that he could cause great harm among his countrymen here and should therefore be kept away from them.

and he wrote Mr. Deutsch a letter. Deutsch said that all this was untrue. So he sent a letter to the manager via a friend and then the manager stood there with Deutsch and told his friend to go to hell. If he had a problem he should sue, he was told. But the husband he had no money to do that, and so he told the story to a member of the Alberta Herold staff who was there in Fort George, and this person promised to publish this letter as a warning for women traveling alone. How can such a monster be allowed to work in the immigration office!

382. “[Der schon gemeldete Umstand ...].” Alberta Herold, November 26, 1914, p. 4.

The fact that 20 sticks of dynamite were found near the High Level Bridge caused the police to surmise that there had been a plan to blow it up when the next troop transport would cross it. According to some rumors in the English dailies a ‘small German settlement west of Edmonton’ is suspected.

The members of the Edelweiss Club are requested to appear at the next meeting on November 30 to discuss the implications of the loss of the club’s liquor license. It is questionable if the club can continue to exist in its present form.

Having sold his photo studio to Mr. Frasch, Mr. Reif and his family moved to Brüderheim where he will work at Mr.
Krause’s mill.

On the first page the Alberta Herold apologizes for having published an item on November 14 which accused Mr.
John Deutsch from the local immigration office of an outrage against a female immigrant and thereby questioned his ability to work as an immigration agent. The Herold admits that this allegation was of no substance and deple-dely to have published the note in the paper. The letter had come from the wife’s husband who had allegedly been sexually assaulted by the immigration agent, and it was published without due diligence to ascertain the truth.

Krankenhagen and Becker unreservedly apologize for any harm that was caused by publishing these erroneous allegations.

From this issue on Heinrich Becker no longer appeared as the editor on the Alberta Herold masthead.

D. H. Borcherding will soon open the Edmonton News Store at the corner of Jasper and Namayo. He will carry all newspapers from the bigger cities in North America in all languages. The German Bookstore is located at 722 Na-amayo Ave.

Adolf Minchau is a blacksmith and shoes horses at 7719 99th Street, Edmonton South.

Because of the severe financial penalty suffered by the Alberta Herold in the dispute with Mr. Deutsch the Alberta Herold finds it difficult to publish the paper on time. The Herold asks for the readers’ patience, especially since it will be able to produce a substantially expanded paper at the end of the month.

Polemic against a reader who complained about the reduced number of pages in the Herold. Apparently he prefers another German paper. Krankenhagen chides him for his poor German and tells him that he does not know anything about publishing a German paper in these times. The number of ads has tumbled, and certain other papers are being financed by a political party, or maybe by groups close to the social-democratic press. Of course, Mr. Stitzenberger had complained about the large number of ads, when times were “good”. Isn’t it better to have a four-page paper with reliable news? Krankenhagen rails against the accusation that the Herold never gave the Deutschtum the appreciation and respect that it should have been given.

Highly laudatory letter from a reader complimenting the efforts of von Hammerstein and Krankenhagen to mobilize the Germans to elect a representative in Ottawa.

Insert on the front page drawing attention to an English-language part of the paper.

Continuation of an article about von Hammerstein’s career by ‘Arnim’. Von Hammerstein is married to an English lady whom he met in London. He is proud to have supported all kinds of charitable causes.

Fawning letter of admiration to von Hammerstein supporting his cause. He also sends $8.50 that he has collected. He thinks that von Hammerstein will experience many disappointments in his quest to raise money and get the Germans behind him for a run in the next elections: there are some who call themselves Germans but are worse than niggers, and rather than spending a quarter they are willing to remain foreigners all their lives. Then there are the others who become English through and through and kiss the feet of the English and French and are willing to sell their German heritage for less than our Lord was betrayed for.

About $29.00 has been added to the campaign fund for the Canada First Movement, nine dollars from a meeting in Strathcona and $10.75 from Leduc.

Attack by von Hammerstein on English-language newspapers which launch hysterical attacks against the Herold and Mr. von Hammerstein. The Northern News is the worst when it comes to distorting the truth about the Herold and von Hammerstein. What a nerve! Canadians of German descent have to think independently and want their own representation in Parliament. The News bristles with anger and demands that von Hammerstein should be hanged for launching his Canada First Appeal. The Winnipeg Free Press criticizes the Herold for the war news in the Herold which appear to be pro-German. But one newspaper has to be singled out for its hate campaign, the Edmonton Journal: The war news column, it says, is full of untruths and lies. Really? There is no hunger and need in Canada? Did not 15,000 hungry people march past the Prime Minister? Did not 400 jobless Edmontonians send a delegation to the mayor? Of course, Mr. Jennings is getting a good salary, and surely has never been to Fraser Flats where he would see what misery and sordidness are? And what about the boots scandal, the fact that hundreds of Canadian soldiers died of meningitis because they always had wet feet! Canada First! Canada above all parties!

Bob Kline [Robert F. Klein] was better than forty when he came to Edmonton in 1909 and stayed there for more than ten years. Rumour had it that he had a castle in his native Austria, but it might be that he himself started the rumour for business reasons. He was a courtly fellow, wore the right clothes, had the right accent, and he gambled and liked champagne, he hunted with noble ferocity and connived in politics like a Hapsburg. It is not clear why he left Austria, but he had spent most of his life in the United States. His last stop before Edmonton was Spokane where he ran a hotel, and when he came to Edmonton it was to run the Grand View Hotel. In 1912 the new MacDonald Hotel was built on that site, so he moved over to 97th Street and together with two partners he built the Northern Hotel. It was a splashy hotel, and Klein ran it with continental flourish until he was caught in financial difficulties and another group took over the hotel. When the war started he and his pal Count von Aubourg, the fabulous German nobleman who was Edmonton’s parks commissioner, were afraid of being interned and headed off into the wilderness. On the way to Lake Athabasca they got sick with scurvy and went back to Edmonton. He was not interned, went to the U.S., got into difficulties with the Mexican and American governments, and after a couple of years came back to Edmonton as the manager of the New Edmonton Hotel. In 1919 he headed to Brazil where he got into a poker game with a hot-blooded man and was shot and killed.

Abraham Hager, “Minister of the Gospel,” was one of the earliest landowners in the study area during the early boom years. He came to the Edmonton district in 1898, at first living at Rabbit Hill. Born in Adelboden, Switzerland, he was ordained in the Methodist church at St. Thiene, Switzerland, then moved to the United States where he joined the Baptist church in Oregon in 1888. After moving to Vancouver in 1893, he came to Edmonton. He organized the first German Baptist Church in 1898. He often translated Frank Oliver’s political speeches into German. During the First World War he organized a church at Fort George, British Columbia. German influences in the Boyle Street area: German immigrants also became established in the Boyle Street community. There were only fourteen people with “German-sounding” names that could be identified in Edmonton by the Henderson’s city directory for 1895. Most German immigrants would settle in the area from First Street to Syndicate Avenue, and north of Jasper Avenue to 111 Street. The greatest concentration of their businesses and residences would develop along Kinistino and Namayo avenues with time. Most German immigrants at first set up as grocers, butchers, carpenters or real estate agents, like Hofmann and Harms, with offices at 421A Namayo. Most were in business for less than a year, but a few stayed and built the local economy and community. The first Edelweiss Club house was built on Kinistino Avenue and Elizabeth Street. The Edelweiss Club, also known as the Kinistino Club House, was located on Lots 30-31 Block 5 River Lot 14. Its building permit was issued on 30 November 1907. The address after 1914 was 9568-101A Avenue). The Germania Choir of Edmonton had its permanent home at the Edelweiss Club from 1908 onward. The Edelweiss Club was incorporated on 24 April 1905 with Gustav Koermann, the real founder and publisher of the Alberta Herold its first president. Work was begun on a clubhouse and it was first opened in January 1906. The opening ball in January 1908 attracted over 200 Germans, while the first German concert in Edmonton was held there in February. The Alberta Herold, Alberta’s first German newspaper, with its office at 252-54 Namayo, was the voice of the German language community after 1903. First owned by the charismatic entrepreneur and musician Count Alfred von Hammerstein, the newspaper was soon sold to Gustav Koermann. The German Bookstore, operated by Lydia Bruegmann, was located next door at 260 Namayo. The First German Baptist Church opened at the corner of Namayo and Isabella Street (104 Avenue), but in 1912 moved to the corner of Kinistino Avenue and 106A Avenue. Later known as the Central Baptist Church, the first church was constructed in the area in 1900. This church remained a religious and cultural centre for German-Canadians in Boyle Street area for years. Other significant churches were St. John’s Lutheran Church, for a congregation established in 1903 in a rented hall. In 1904 the first small church was built on Kinistino Avenue, while the third church was begun on Namayo in 1909, opening in March 1910. St. Peter’s Lutheran Church held its first services in Roberts Hall, on the corner of Namayo and Jasper Avenue in May 1894, but moved further north into its own church at 107 Avenue and 103 Street in 1906.

By 1914, the first year of the First World War, when many of German and Austro-Hungarian descent would become “enemy aliens,” “Germans” were well established in the community. Among those working in the east end were William Anton, a barber with a shop located at 9605 100A Avenue. Heinrich Haubnel ran another barbershop at 630 Kinistino Avenue. David Borcherdinger was the owner of the German Bookstore at its new location at 722 Namayo. Lydia Bruegmann, the former bookstore owner, now operated a stationery store at 260 Namayo. Heinrich Becker was now the editor of the Alberta Herold, and lived at 109 Queens Avenue (99 Street). Hermann Carl and Herman Schmitt operated a popular butcher stand at the Central Public Market downtown. Frasch Fotos operated their photographic shop at the corner of Boyle Street and Namayo. The German and Reformed Dutch Church at 1515 Kinistino Avenue (10857 96 Street) had joined First German Baptist Church in ministering to the German community. The German School was located at 1818 Kinistino Avenue, at St. Peter’s Lutheran Church. The Edelweiss Club still was very active, located at 216 Morris Street (106A Avenue) after 1912. The Hager-Harder Company owned a grocery store at 701 Fraser Avenue (98 Street). Adam Heibges operated a restaurant at 69 Fraser Avenue. George Hennig’s general store at 1135 Namayo catered to the German clientele, as well as others. William Hencher operated a grocery store at 265 Namayo. George Huffman owned a poolroom at 538 Kinistino Avenue (10326 96 Street). Conrad Jordan operated his tailor shop at 821 Namayo, while Albert Kales had a shoemaker’s shop at 611 Namayo. E.A.
Kemp and Son opened a plumbers’ office at 349 Namayo in 1912, and Gus Klukas another at #1022. Adolph Kleifeld operated his butcher shop at further north on Kinistino Avenue at #1236, while William Semaka ran one at 615
Kinistino Avenue. Boarding establishments like the Hoffman House at 353 Fraser Avenue, Thomas Trott’s at 207
Fraser Avenue, and that of Ernest Kilzig at 65-69 Fraser Avenue catered to the many transient labourers and job seekers coming to the city. Carl Henningsen operated his Dye Works at 142 Wilson Street (110 Avenue), on the northern edge of the garment district. One of two Vienna Cafes was located at 10251 Kinistino Avenue.

Authorities have released the name of a Raymond-area woman who died April 30 while checking cattle on her farm.
A search was immediately launched. Family and friends pitched in to comb the property and canal. When they weren’t able to find Duncan, Raymond RCMP was called to help. Fire crews from the towns of Warner and Raymond, and two local Hutterite colonies, Miami and Kingsland, also stepped in. Foul play is not suspected in the death.

Almost a thousand people attended the German Cultural Day (“Deutscher Tag”) on July 17, 2011 at the Victoria Soccer Club in Edmonton. A Frühschoppen (morning pint) was followed by soccer games and, in the afternoon, by performances by the German Men’s Choir Liederkranz, the German Ladies Choir Wildrose and the Bavarian Schuhplattlers of Edmonton. Rick and Horst played the accordion.

The German Language School of Edmonton gave their traditional Christmas concert on the stage of Rio Terrace Elementary School.

The traditional Christkindl Market, which takes place every year in the German-Canadian Cultural Center, was held on November 27. In addition to arts and crafts there was bakery and mulled wine.

The president of the German-Canadian Cultural Association used the occasion of the Christmas celebration that took place on December 2, 2012 in the German-Canadian Cultural Center to thank the many volunteers for their support of the Cultural Center. The volunteers so honoured were Michael Chomitsch, Maria Wirth, Rosemarie Wolf, Edith Kranz, Waltraud Cordes, Christine Rubba, Inge Hess, Marita Wolff, Terry Ruscheinsky, Joan Armstrong and Hanni Fritz.

The City of Edmonton honoured the president of the Victoria Soccer Club, Karl Weidle, and one of the founders of the German-Canadian Cultural Center, Helmut Wolter, for their many years of volunteer engagement.

A renowned University of Alberta linguistics professor who left for Germany after winning that country’s most prestigious research award is keeping up the good work with his students here. Prof. Harald Baayen continues to support his U of A students even though the $6.5-million Alexander von Humboldt Professorship he won last year has taken him to the University of Tubingen in Germany. It is the most valuable international research award in that country and will allow Baayen to hire a top-notch team and equip a research laboratory for his work in quantitative linguistics.

Baayen’s work in quantitative linguistics centres around how the brain handles language. He is gathering information about the statistical properties of language in the hope of predicting where difficulties are in understanding language, or reading or speaking. Baayen is sorry to leave the University of Alberta, but he continues to meet with University of Alberta linguistics students via video conference and is working toward having the University of Alberta and Tubingen University offer joint PhD degrees to linguistics students.

The University’s City Region Studies Centre launched a competition as a way to get exposure for new ideas on how to make the ubiquitous retail strips more walkable and community-oriented. A local contest to redesign strip malls drew more than 100 entries from 11 countries and attracted interest from developers from as far away as Moscow. The winner was a Buffalo-based submission by German architectural firm Davidson Rafailidis. It proposed the abandoned strip mall could be given back to the community, and detailed how each piece of the existing mall can be used to create a new, modern mix of housing and retail.

On January 14, 2012 the Edmonton Skatclub Spreeasse came together for their annual banquet in the Victoria Soccer Club to announce the winners and losers of the past year’s tournament. President Ron Link welcomed the guests and thanked the GCAA and the Victoria Soccer Club.

Interview with the new honourary German Consul, the German-Canadian lawyer Hubertus Liebrecht, for Calgary and southern Alberta. The position had been unfilled for the previous three years. Liebrecht had studied law in Germany and had his own office in Munich in 1994. In 1999 he opened the first German lawyer’s office in Canada in Vancouver. Later, offices in Toronto and Calgary were added. In 2007 he also obtained the license as an immigration advisor.

The German-Canadian Association of Alberta—the umbrella organization for 31 German-Canadian organizations with a combined membership of 4,000—wants to attract more volunteers by awarding them scholarships. Scholarships worth $250 (for high school students), $2,500 (undergraduate) and $3,000 (graduate) will be offered to defray the students’ costs of their studies. Certain criteria must be met by the applicants.

The puppet theater figures Kasper and Crocodile talk—deliberately bilingually in German and English, respectively—about the up-coming puppet theater performance in celebration of ten years of children’s library at the German-Canadian Cultural Center. Emily, Sophia and Dayl Steinke, Agnes Melax, Monika Trott, Alexander Thielmann and Hannah Noerenberg will be the puppeteers.

Among this year’s Global Visions Film Festival in Edmonton, two stand out: “The Guantanamo Trap” (Thomas Wallner, Switzerland-Germany-Canada). Surprisingly sympathetic without being sentimental, this documentary follows and attempts to explain the motivations of various adversaries around the still-controversial Gitmo, ground zero of post-911 hypocrisy. The other one is “Into the Abyss” (Werner Herzog, Germany). Shot with absolute control and a shocking lack of exploitation, Herzog documents the ruined lives surrounding a triple murder over a red Camaro in small-town Texas, painting a vivid portrait of a system which crushes lives and souls in an ancient idea of justice.

On February 16, 2012 the German Honourary Consul for Northern Alberta and the Northwest Territories, Bernd Reuscher, was decorated with the Bundesverdienstkreuz (Cross of the Order of Merit) by the German Ambassador to Canada, Dr. Georg Witschel. In his thank-you speech Reuscher thanked the Foreign Office and the Ambassador and recalled his origin in the GDR, his escape to the West, university in Hamburg and more than 20 years of work for Siemens. He had come to Edmonton 18 years ago. He also expressed his gratitude for the many years of collaboration with Dr. Horst Schmid, whom he called his mentor, the lawyer Harald Kukertz and Heinz Kleist, the president of the German-Canadian Association of Alberta. [The Ambassador’s speech is reprinted on p. 13].

The Wirth Institute for Austrian and Central European Studies at the University of Alberta will organize weekly talks on various aspects of Central Europe until April 5. As part of the Tova Yedlin lectures Gershon David Hundert (MacGill University) will speak on “An eighteenth century Jewish wine merchant among the gentiles of Galicia” on March 8. From April 1 to 4 an international conference, organized by Helga Mitterbauer and Carrie Smith-Prei from the Department of Modern Languages, will take place on the topic “Trans-Aesthetics: Crossing Central Europe.” It accompanies the exhibition “Rearview Mirror: New Art from Central and Eastern Europe” organized in cooperation with the Art Gallery of Alberta. The exhibition “Austrian Immigration to Canada / L’émigration autrichien au Canada” will again be mounted, this time in the library of the Campus St. Jean from April 10 to May 4. [Anna Katharina Windisch from the University of Vienna is this year’s recipient of the research scholarship at the Wirth Institute].

The Stuttgart Chamber Choir and conductor Frieder Bernius traveled from Germany to perform music of J.S. Bach, Mendelssohn, Ligeti and Arvo Part, plus Canadian composer Paul Frehner, featuring the Toronto-based TorQ Percussion Quartet at Edmonton’s United Wesley Church.

Germany has another advocate in Calgary with the appointment of its honorary consul, Hubertus Liebrecht. Liebrecht hails from Munich, where he was educated in law and economics. He opened his own law firm in 1994, but remembering the wonderful times he had in the Vancouver area as a student, he soon began to practise in areas that brought him into contact with Canadian law firms. In 1999, he immigrated with his family to Vancouver and set up a company that used his knowledge of German law, a niche that no one else was covering at that time. He later opened an office in Toronto, and after many visits to Calgary, he opened an office of H. Liebrecht & Associates here. in 2007. With his move to Calgary, Liebrecht was approached by the German government for the appointment of honorary consul, three years after Jacobus Bowman left Calgary to live in Germany and therefore resigned his position of honorary consul of the Federal Republic of Germany for southern Alberta.

Liebrecht’s German Business Centre North America in Vancouver led to a separate company called ProCanada Consulting—Immigration Solutions, which was formed to help Germans and other Europeans wishing to settle here.
He has located his businesses on the 19th floor of the Ford Tower on 6th Avenue S.W. where he has established his ProCanada Consulting, German Business Centre North America, and the consulate.

As early as 1985 a “Children’s Garden”—a deliberately literal translation of the German Kindergarten—was founded in Calgary by Ulrike Fielden. Since 2001 a German-language pre-school has been offered in the same place where German and Canadian culture are equally present. Halloween and carnival are equally popular with the children. The Viennese Sabine Hogg was the first educator to acquaint the children with Kasperl, who tells the children about the rules to be followed in kindergarten with much humor, and has taught them a clean-up song that the children also love to sing at home. Adults can learn things there as well, such as building gingerbread houses with the children. Ingrid Smith has been the program’s director since 2011. A Children’s Garden is one of several programs supported by the Association for German Education in Calgary. Its website is located at www.GermanEducationCalgary.ca.

Joyce Hunt is the author of the just published Local Push-Global Pull: the Untold History of the Athabaska Oil Sands. Hunt’s self-published history of the oilsands between 1900 and 1930 has won the support of both oil industry leaders and people curious about the pioneer days of what was to become one of the greatest oil resources on the planet. Hunt explores the world of Count Alfred von Hammerstein, a Klondike gold rush traveller who ended up in Fort McMurray and managed to obtain full ownership rights (including mineral rights) to four freehold areas—each about one mile by three miles in size—which are now owned by Suncor Energy. They’re in the Steepbank mine area east of the Athabasca River and the Tar Island area. Early developers didn’t know what to do with the sticky oilsands. Some was shipped south by boat and later train, and ended up as asphalt. Ada Boulevard in the Highlands neighbourhood was paved with a sample in 1911. Hunt follows the eventual realization that there was no oil under the oilsands, and the beginning of attempts to mine the sands and extract the oil. While early separation attempts proved futile, the province began issuing “bituminous sands permits” in 1930. Alberta knew it had a great resource, but it took another two decades before Karl Clark perfected a hot-water method to actually produce oil. The first commercial plant, Great Canadian Oil Sands (now Suncor), didn’t open until 1966. [Link to author’s webpage: http://localpushglobalpull.com/].

The Bavarian Schuhplattlers of Edmonton gave a well-received Heimatabend on April 21 in the German-Canadian Cultural Center. The story line for their performance involved the Canadian Fritzenhammer family visiting Bavaria and staying overnight in the Hotel Kuckucksuhr. They get involved in some murky business in the center of which is the illegal preparation of sauerkraut. The Bavarian secret service eventually solves the bizarre smugglers’ affair, and a happy end ensues. The Schuhplattlers performed as well as the 12-member youth group Alpenspatzen.

Beaming and elegant in period costume and hairstyle, Calgary actress Julie Lynn Mortensen is at the tail end of a lengthy shoot playing Catharine Whyte, a woman who most Albertans are familiar with. The freespirited, blue-blooded U.S. expat formerly known as Catharine Robb married soulmate and fellow artist Peter Whyte of Banff. Both are remembered by the Whyte Museum of the Canadian Rockies, which helped cement their reputation as important artists, offering a home to artwork that has been deemed among the most important in celebrating the culture of the Rockies. “Drawing Home” was co-written and directed by German director Markus Rupprecht. “Drawing Home” is a sprawling epic that follows the Whytes’ love story for nearly half a century. The film—to be released in 2013—begins when Catharine is still romantically linked to John D. Rockefeller III, a member of one of the richest families on earth in the 1920s. But she would soon make the unlikely, romantic choice to give up a life of wealth and privilege to join Peter, whom she met while studying art in Boston, in what was then the wild frontier of Alberta. This is Rupprecht’s first film as a director. In his native Germany, he’s probably best known for having developed a compact HD digital camera known as the Drake. It’s proven handy when shooting in the mountains.

Two Mexican Mennonite men face multiple charges in connection with the cross-border trafficking of $2-million worth of cocaine, and Tuesday morning, police quietly arrested the pair in Taber, 250 kilometres southeast of Calgary. A third man of Chihuahua, Mexico, also faces trafficking charges, but has fled to Mexico where he remains. The men are accused of having masterminded a trafficking network with ties to organized crime in Mexico. At a press conference in Taber Tuesday, investigators confirmed the accused men had links to the Mexican Mennonite community, but were quick to add that their backgrounds were largely irrelevant to the investigation.

On June 17 soccer fans and friends of German culture came to the German Cultural Day (Deutscher Tag), which is celebrated at the Victoria Soccer Club every year. As always there was much food and drink and entertainment.

463. “In der Bowcroft Grundschule in Calgary geht’s schon seit 10 Jahren rund!” Albertaner, July 1, 2012, p. 2.

Brief description of the English-German bilingual program at Calgary’s Bowcroft Elementary School.

More than 50 skat players from across Canada, the U.S. and the Bahamas participated in an international skat tournament at the Victoria Soccer Club in Edmonton from June 1 to 3. The German-Canadian Association of Alberta served again as the sponsor of the event.

The students at Mills Haven School in Sherwood Park, which is the location of an English-German bilingual program, celebrated the end of the school year with a “summer sizzler” with the theme “Olympic Games”. The children wore costumes from several different countries, games were played in the gymnasium and lots of food and drink was consumed.

Sophie von Vogel has published an amusing travel guide to Canada, Fettmäpchenführer Kanada—wenn’s im Land der Weite zu eng wird. The main character in this guide is Mareike who discovers many differences between Germany and Canada in their life styles and customs and gets into many embarrassing situations. It also offers many factoids for the interested reader.

Margarete Otto was elected as the new president of the German Canadian Club of Calgary on April 15. She will have the onerous task to find a new home for the Club, which sold its club house in northeast Calgary a few months ago. The sale was necessitated because of the financial straits in which the Club has found itself. Otto says that the club has to downsize although the Heidelberg Restaurant did well. The building and lot were sold for $3.2 million. She hopes that the new building will not cost more than $1.2 million. The Club was founded in 1931 by German immigrants. For many years it was located in Bowness where the wealthy German-Canadian businessman Louis Oel had donated a lot. In 1996 the Euro-Canadian Cultural Center was opened on that lot which was also open to other European immigrant groups, but the concept was not successful. So the Club sold the building and built a new one on Barlow Trail in 2003.

The German-Canadian Association of Alberta will once again man a tent at this year’s Edmonton Heritage Festival on August 4-6. Everyone is invited for food and drink. Every year the festival goers consume ca. 5,500 sausages on a bun and more than 2,000 pretzels. Several groups will have displays and there will be music as well.

Reprint of the speech given by the German Ambassador to Canada, Dr. Georg Witschel, on the occasion of awarding the German Cross of Order of Merit to the Vice-President and Provost of the University of Alberta, Dr. Amrhein, for his many achievements in establishing close relationships between the University and German partner universities. At the same event, the Ambassador presented Britta Baron, Associate Vice-President and Vice-Provost for International Relationships, with the German-Canadian Friendship Award.

More than 300 students in Edmonton’s three elementary English-German bilingual schools participated in a competition for the Mini-Euro-Cup 2012 at Forest Heights Elementary School on June 4, 2012. More than 50 parents helped in the organization of the event. 32 teams ran and fought for victory, and 70 students in Grades 8 and 9 at the Junior School served as trainers and coaches. Gene Zwozdesky, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, was one of the referees. The German Ambassador, Dr. Georg Witschel, presented the cup to the victorious team.

Laudatory review Lorraine Dreger Yakulic’s Step Back in Time! Volume 1, Northern Alberta. An Historical Travel Guide for Albertans of German Heritage. The intent of this book “was to gather samplings of available resources in one central file, in order to render research of Alberta’s German heritage less of a daunting task. … By using this research/travel guide, I hope people will be encouraged: to acknowledge their German ancestral footprint in Alberta; and to visit the particular areas where their ancestors lived and worked.” (vii) The 525-page volume is divided into three main parts. “Setting the Scene in Northern Alberta”, “Touring Northern Alberta: Trailways, Waterways & Railways” and “German Place Names, Family Names, and Settlement Areas”. The beautifully and lavishly illustrated, carefully edited volume makes it a suitable coffee table book that anyone would enjoy browsing leisurely. This is not your usual boring history book with pages and pages of continuous text and tables of figures: each page contains a bit of history, a bit of personal information, a bit of cultural trivia, maps and photographs, bulleted lists all woven together in a richly developed ancestral tapestry. Two more volumes are planned.

This year 19 students from Grade 12 in Strathcona High School passed the challenging language diploma II exam (DSD II). Several students will register at various German universities, and this year several graduates from the bilingual program will enrol in courses at the German partner university of the University of Alberta, the University of Marburg. Michael Boeske got top marks this year for which he received a bursary of $500 from the Association for English-German Bilingual Education of Edmonton.

It may be a mecca for the blues, but it will be all smiles when the Commercial Hotel (a.k.a. “The Commie”) celebrates its 100th birthday Sunday. In the century since the three-story brick landmark was constructed, the Commercial has played a role in so many lives. Originally, in the days following Old Strathcona’s incorporation into the City of Edmonton, it was one of the swankiest hotels around, famous for its innovation of hot and cold running water in every room and fine dining in the restaurant. Since then, the hotel has weathered many changes and owners as Alberta’s oilpatch and Whyte Avenue itself have gone through booms and busts. German immigrant Herb Ortlieb had spent 20 years in construction here when he was invited to join a group of investors to purchase the Commercial back in 1971. His building experience was especially handy in overseeing the many repairs and renovations that were needed at the time. After buying in and working as an understudy to a couple of mentors, he took over as general manager about a year later. That was the same year the province lowered the drinking age from 21 to 18. Ortlieb capitalized on that change, upgrading the bar area to get an expanded liquor licence so they could serve hard liquor.

Then, in 1987, he got the idea to add a new wing to the hotel’s tavern, to expand into the east parking lot. Ortlieb admits he’s still more of a European waltz music fan, but in asking around, he concluded that the blues could bring new life to the venue, which had previously catered to country fans on weekends only. In 1984, he sent his bar manager to Chicago to make some contacts, and Blues On Whyte was born with an original weekend cover of $3.

Wagner Bog—a tiny mosquito-infested wetland situated along Highway 16A just a few kilometres west of Edmonton—is a gem by any ecological standard. Of the 26 wild orchids identified in Alberta, 16 can be found here, along with 300 or so other wildflowers such as the spiky elephant head, the impossibly delicate shooting star, the smelly skunk currant and the cursed crowfoot, which is enchanting to look at, but a “curse” to deer or livestock that consume it. Many of these plants are hosts to an extraordinary number of moths, butterflies, bees, parasitic wasps and other insects, some of which are so new to science that they still have not been named. But they may not be around by the time that happens. As wondrous as Wagner is, its future is in doubt now that the County of Parkland is considering a draft plan to rezone the lands along its southern boundary from agricultural to industrial.

This isn’t the first time that Wagner’s wonders have been threatened by outside developments. When German immigrant Frederick Wagner bought the land in 1926, his plans to log the coniferous forest and turn it into a dairy pasture got waylaid when the CPR, the former owner, informed him of their plan to mine the marl and turn it into cement. Determined not to allow the site to be dynamited, Wagner hired prominent Edmonton lawyer William Morrow to take the matter to court. Morrow, who went on to become one of Alberta’s most famous judges, successfully argued that unlike oil and gas, marl was not a subsurface mineral to which the province had exclusive rights. Wagner apparently did not see anything particularly special about that fen he owned. He had no objection when a group of Edmonton naturalists led by the late Edgar Jones, Bill Morgan and Bill Fuller came up with the idea of buying the land with the help of the University of Alberta, the Canadian Nature Conservancy, and an anonymous donor. The fen was eventually designated a natural area by the province, but that still wasn’t the end of its troubles.

Two marching bands from Germany participated in this year’s Calgary Stampede which is celebrating its 100th anniversary. The Fanfarenzug Potsdam achieved fourth place in the category “Marching and Show Bands” and was world champion in 2012 in the marching band competition. The Berittene Fanfarenzug Freckenheim took part with 35 musicians and used a number of Canadian horses. Detailed report on activities.

Käthe Klotsche, widow of the German-Canadian Artisan Siegfried Klotsche, has gifted the University of Alberta with the ‘Mrs. Käthe & Siegfried Klotsche Scholarship in German’. It will be awarded annually to students with very high achievement in German who have also have a record of volunteer work in the German-Canadian community.

Captain Georg Kuhse, a former president (1995-96) of the Bavarian Schuhplattlers of Edmonton, received the Diamond Jubilee Medal on July 9, 2012. He was one of 24 citizens to be so decorated. Kuhse served in the Canadian army for 37 years.

Report on a ten-day tour of Germany by the German Ladies Choir of Calgary. The choir sang three well-received pieces in the Cologne Cathedral. The tour covered Benrath, Solingen, Cologne, Schloss Mühlhausen, Friedrichshafen, Mainau, Scheidegg in the Allgäu and Friedrichshafen-Fischbach.

The German-Canadian Centre for Innovation and Research has its headquarters in downtown Edmonton. It has been in existence for two years. Founded by an initiative launched by Bernd Reuscher, Honorary German Consul, it is a bilateral initiative for the development of German-Canadian science and business relationships; its objective is to support both countries in cooperation projects in science and business. The Centre’s director, Cornelia Sarwas, announced a new program between the Province of Alberta and Germany, the Alberta-Germany Collaboration Fund for Research and Development and Commercialization. It targets small and medium-sized businesses in the two countries in the areas of clean energy, environmental technology, advanced materials including micro- and nanotechnology, industrial biotechnology and information and communications technology. A three-day symposium will be held in October in Germany where companies from Alberta can get to know their German counterparts. The projects are funded with $50,000 each, but the partners are expected to contribute their own funds. Up till now the cooperation between Alberta and Germany has consisted mainly of city and province partnerships (e.g., Grimma and Leduc, Alberta and Bavaria and Saxony). In 2009 the Helmholtz initiative was launched which seeks to intensify cooperation in environmental and energy research. Since February 2010 there has also been the Alberta-Saxony Intercultural Internship Alliance, an internship exchange program involving 15 post-secondary institutions in Saxony and 9 in Alberta. By 2013 about 100 students from both countries will have participated in this exchange.

Ms. Windisch, this year’s Austrian Fellowship recipient at the Wirth Institute for Austrian and Central European Studies at the University of Alberta, describes her insights into differences between Austria and Canada and deals with the romanticized stereotypical views of Austria that she has often encountered (the Trapp family and the film “The Sound of Music”, which is hardly known in Austria), the Sissi-trilogy, music, art, etc. She also addresses the issue of a current Austrian identity and its self-perceptions of Austria’s role and fate in the Third Reich. Ms. Windisch points out the multilayered, complex facets of Austrian identity.

More than 360,000 people attended the Edmonton Heritage Festival between August 4 and 6. This year there were 63 pavilions exhibiting the accomplishments of 85 different cultures. The German Pavilion received an Honorable Mention at the end of the Festival. At the German pavilion there was food and drink as always, dances and an exhibit by the English-German bilingual program.

Kurt Miller is the new president of the German-Canadian Business and Professional Association of Alberta. He succeeds Klaus Maier who led the association for four years. He deplores the fact that the group’s membership has shrunk to 14 while at its best time this club that was founded by German immigrants 41 years ago had up 100 members. He has a number of changes planned. There will be no more guest speakers; the emphasis will be on networking, and the membership fee has been reduced to $10 per year from $200. For February 2013 an Edmonton German Business and Professional Event is planned with a trade fair and workshops. The association also wants to compile a directory of German-Canadian businesses in Edmonton. Miller was born in Saskatchewan as the son of German immigrants and has lived in Edmonton since 1997. He received a Bachelor of Commerce from the University of Saskatchewan and currently works as investment advisor for CIBC Wood Gundy.

In an era of Canadian history that was rife with colourful characters—many bordering on the scoundrel level—Count Alfred von Hammerstein was arguably one of the most colourful. Arriving in the Athabasca region in 1897—detoured from his original goal of reaching the Klondike—von Hammerstein was one of the first to explore the oilsands, believing that the source of the bitumen must be a pool of “free oil” lying beneath the sand formation. Soon after his arrival, he undertook, on his own initiative, a trip to Ottawa where he delivered a report to a Senate committee in which he presented, in somewhat of an exaggeration, a glowing report of the mineral wealth to be found in the Athabasca region, including oilsands, coal, salt, copper, limestone and gold. A central theme of his report was the usefulness of the oilsands to produce asphalt. Von Hammerstein began his serious quest for this source oil in 1903, ferrying drilling equipment, supplies and men to operate his wells down the Athabasca River—an 80-mile trip with significant rapids. On one trip, both his crew members drowned; on another, a shooting accident left him wounded in the leg, forcing him to travel alone to Edmonton for medical attention. To finance his exploration efforts, von Hammerstein formed the Athabasca Petroleum Syndicate in 1906 and spent more than $50,000—a considerable sum in those days—to drill several wells in a number of locations north of Fort McMurray. He discovered gas—although there was little need for it—and he claimed also to have discovered oil. He was able to convince government inspectors that he had found oil in “paying” quantities—a boast that allowed him to secure drilling rights on a fee simple basis, while those coming behind him had to lease their lands. Von Hammerstein was also the first to suggest a pipeline be built to a refinery in Edmonton, a project that would have cost $1.5 million—pipeline and refinery included.

For most of the 40 years or so he spent in the area, von Hammerstein was an elusive figure. He rarely spoke with the media, suggesting that any knowledge of the oilsands that he might have gained was actually the property of his syndicate. He travelled extensively and was, at one point, reported in the Edmonton Daily Capital newspaper as having been killed “while engaged in promoting a revolution” in Paraguay. Subsequent editions carried objections from von Hammerstein himself that reports of his death had been “greatly exaggerated.” Nothing much ever became of von Hammerstein’s “discoveries,” if in fact there ever were any oil discoveries, and his first efforts to cash in on his lands failed miserably. In the 1930s, he offered the lands to both Imperial Oil Ltd. and Royal Dutch Shell plc, first at $250,000 and later at a “Depression discount” of $110,000, but neither company took him up on the offer. Eventually, executors of the von Hammerstein estate sold the 11,000 acres to Sun Oil Company of Philadelphia, but a court case ensued and the properties went instead to Territory Oil Company. In 1995, the freehold lands were acquired by Suncor Energy Inc. “It was Hammerstein’s positive can-do attitude in the face of many adversities that showed the way for the explorers who followed him,” wrote Joyce Hunt in her letter nominating von Hammerstein. “The Count was truly a pioneer who paved the way for future players attempting to find ways to extract the riches contained in the oilsands.” [Plus photo].

Calgary’s Cecil Hotel will be saved. Calgary’s economy has been built by booms and destroyed by busts over the last century. Economic tides work like erosion here, leaving traces of a history that can barely be seen under the pressure of wealth and optimism. As a result, the Cecil, standing for 100 years, is one of only six pre-First World War hotels still standing. Despite neglect, fires, bad paint jobs, a few poor renovations and more homicides than anyone’s bothered to count, the structure is in tolerable good shape. The heritage authority has declared the building salvageable. It retains much of its turn-of-the-century brick, wood and sandstone infrastructure.

The Cecil opened in 1912, near the apogee of what would later come to be known as the Age of Optimism. The railway was spreading across the prairie like a fast-creeping vine. In the decade prior, the village of 4,000 grew to just under 73,000. Unable to keep up with the ballooning population, the city was desperate for houses, rooms, beds, floors, shacks, tents—anything for the thousands of men and women who had come to the prairie to make their fortunes. Because of the city’s transient nature, hotels and boarding houses were naturally preferred over more permanent domiciles. At the time, many of these options were little more than rickety wooden claptraps, unclean, and filled with loud, brawling taverns. So it was no small relief to see a headline in the Calgary Daily Herald: “Hotel Permit Issued. The permit for the proposed Hotel Cecil was taken out yesterday. It is to be built on the corner of Fourth Avenue and Third Street East and is to cost $40,000.” Newspapers at the time listed its owners as Joseph Schuster and Charles Pohl, well-known German-Canadian businessmen. The Age of Optimism was giddy, but brief. Within a few years of the hotel’s opening, war and prohibition would staunch the city’s first frantic expansion.

Following a day’s study into the world of pain there is something apt about a night of relaxation playing guitar in a heavy metal band. Welcome to the world of Calgary professor Gerald Zamponi: known in scientific circles as an expert in the various realms of pain and to the local metal crowd as lead guitarist of Hellrazer. Zamponi is the senior associate dean at the U of C’s faculty of medicine where he has been heavily involved in studying the different ways we hurt and how best to alleviate the suffering which makes no sense. Because not all pain is created equal. There is good pain and there is bad pain, and Zamponi would like to get rid of the latter without sacrificing the former—essential to living beyond childhood. He had gone to the University of Calgary in 1991 to work on a PhD, a year after arriving from his native Austria. Zamponi emigrated after meeting Meg, a young woman from Calgary at a party in his home country.

Last June the first Low-German Mennonite high school student graduated in Carmangay. It was a milestone for the Palliser School District which over the past five year has built rapport with a cultural and Christian religious community that has historically shunned public education. The Mennonite population in the area has been a bit of a problem: there is a staggeringly high number of Low-German Mennonite youths dropping out of school. They are obviously not well-prepared for jobs and work on farms, fast-food-joints, according to school officials. There is also the issue of parents without much education sending their children to “congregated sites” set up by the community—all with the help of provincial funding. Officials from a number of public school boards don’t like what they see and are calling for more accountability. Complicating matters is that many families speak Low-German, and not English, as a first language. But as the Low-German Mennonite population grows with an influx from Mexico (some estimates put the southern Alberta number at 18,000), the distrust of formal schooling is butting up against the reality that good jobs need a good education. Younger generations of parents, who regret their own lack of schooling, are now shedding the skepticism to enrol their children in the public system. One of the three Palliser schools that offer Low-German Mennonite alternative programs is in Barons. When the school reopened in 2008 to offer the alternative program, dozens of volunteers from the Mennonite community cleaned and readied the place for the first day of class. Today, the building is at capacity. What they are learning is a public education based on the Alberta Education curriculum, but with conditions attached. Most students don’t work on the Internet, as parents are apprehensive of their children surfing the web. Mornings begin with hymns sung in Low-German and, while the students are taught in English, there is also High-German language instruction. Halloween is banned. Sex education isn’t talked about, and evolution is not taught. At the higher grades, at the Carmangay outreach school, there is a flexibility unavailable in most regular programs. Students can head to work a couple days, then spend the rest of the week in class. It’s all an effort to reflect what parents want—and don’t want—for their children.

Five years ago, 100 Low-German Mennonite students attended public school in the district. This fall, the count has risen to 560. It is a significant shift, given historic misgivings Low-German Mennonites have about public education. Every parent that home-schools in Alberta does so under the umbrella of a school board or accredited private school. The province funds each student $1,641.27 a year. The parent gets one half, and the school the other. The school uses its portion to pay for administration and certified teachers who visit each home at least twice a year. More than 300 of the Low-German Mennonite students who are homeschooled through Hope Christian attend one of two “congregated sites” established by the community: one in Grassy Lake, the other called Circle Hill, both near Taber. These sites are established by parents, and supervisors are hired, although they typically do not have a Grade 12 education. On the 2011 Grade 3 English language arts provincial achievement test, just 14.3 per cent of students at the congregated sites reached the acceptable standard, compared with 81 per cent provincewide. But that doesn’t tell the story because the provincial achievement exams test Alberta curriculum, whereas the home-school students are learning a Christian Light curriculum developed in the United States. Up to 80 per cent of Low-German Mennonite adults, many of them who grew up in Mexico, are said to be functionally illiterate in their own language. A growing number of teens in the Taber area, seek out local services because they can’t read or write. Those who worry about what’s happening with Low-German children not in public schools are at pains to say they support the choice to home-school. But they criticize the province for not having rules that require home-school parents to at least have a Grade 12 education, and urge more accountability for the education provided. But some say that you could not be confrontational because then there is the risk of families moving away, taking more of their children out. What started in June 2007 with a meeting at the Nobleford community centre between school officials and a handful of Low-German Mennonite families, has led to a mini school boom between Vulcan and Lethbridge. Three schools, in Carmangay (pop. 367), Barons (pop. 315) and Coaldale (pop. 7,493), that were closed in the past 15 years have now reopened.

On the last day of January, Bowcroft School in Bowness will stage a showcase of their German bilingual program, featuring singing, riddles and a play from a dark, but funny, classic story called “Max and Moritz”. Not only is the student performance billed as a delightful evening at the school, it also plays a crucial role in Bowcroft’s efforts to promote itself and encourage new parents to sign their children up for kindergarten. The German bilingual program is small but unique, drawing students from as far away as Sundance.

On January 25 and 26, 2013 German-Canadian carnivalists from Alberta (K.G. Blaue Funken, Edmonton), Saskatchewan K.G. Harmonie, Regina) and Manitoba (K.G. Treuer Husar, Winnipeg) met in Edmonton for the Western Canada Mardi Gras Festival, which takes place every other year. More than 100 participants performed on the two evenings.
On January 22, 2013 a scholarly discussion forum was held at the University of Calgary to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Elysee-Treaty concluded between French president Charles de Gaulle and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, which put an end to the long enmity between Germany and France and was to serve as the foundation for a united Europe.

Interview with Dr. Richard Starke. Dr. Starke was elected as the Conservative MLA of Vermilion-Lloydminster in April 2012. After beginning his studies at the University of Alberta he received his doctorate from the Western College of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Saskatchewan in 1983. Subsequently he practiced as a veterinarian from 1983 to 2011. Dr. Starke was born in Edmonton; his father had been a butcher in Radebeul in Saxony, his mother came from Ukraine. Before his election to the Alberta Legislature Dr. Starke had been a member of the city council of Lloydminster. He has been an active member of the German community and was a founding member of the Lloydminster German Heritage Society.

The president of the Edmonton Carnival Society Blauen Funken had his tie cut off by two ladies. This is an old tradition from the Rhineland in which women cut off men’s ties as the symbol of male authority. In return they get a kiss. This tradition goes back to 1824.

One in the series “This Day in Journal History”. Laws restricting the expansion of Hutterite colonies in Alberta should be thrown out and an agreement negotiated with the religious sect, MLAs were told. That advice came from lawyer Percy Davies of Clyde, who appeared before the agriculture committee as counsel for about 5,000 Hutterites in 51 Alberta colonies. The 65-member agriculture committee heard arguments for and against Bill 63, which amended the province’s Communal Property Act. The bill would have done away with the provision that colonies couldn’t be established closer than 60 kilometres apart and the land holding was limited to not more than 2,560 hectares. Instead, it would have put the regulation of colony expansion under a three-person board that would judge each case individually. Board rulings would be subject to cabinet ratification. More than a dozen bearded Hutterite elders, dressed identically in plain black suits, sat behind Davies as he read a 26-page brief of their behalf. Davies wondered how many Albertans would be willing to have cabinet decide where they will live, how much land they may purchase, whether or not they have the right to earn a living and “whether or not they are to be forbidden to practise their religion.” Davies charged that the province’s restrictive legislation against Hutterites transgressed in one form or another 11 of the articles in the United Nations’ Universal Declaration of Human Rights. The problems stemmed as far back as the 1930s, when local residents raised concerns the Hutterites represented unfair competition in agriculture, thus threatening the family farm. In 1942, Alberta’s Social Credit government passed the Communal Property Act. In 1960, the act was eventually amended, but complaints about further expansion continued. In 1972, the new Progressive Conservative government passed a Bill of Rights, and repealed the Communal Property Act the following year against strong protests from MLAs in southern Alberta. An advisory committee on the expansion of colonies was established, comprising representatives from both the government and the Hutterites, but it could only make suggestions not to locate a new colony within 24 km of an existing colony.

Well-known German-Canadian lawyer Harald Kukertz has been appointed as the new Honourary German Consul for Northern Alberta and the Northwest Territories. He will succeed Bernd Reuscher who held this position from 2005 on. Kukertz was born in Aachen and emigrated to Canada in 1972. He studied law at the University of Alberta and has been practising law in Edmonton. He has been active in the German community, and amongst others was president of the German-Canadian Business and Professional Association. He will begin his work on April 10, 2013.

Susie Kaul has been the choir’s director for 20 years.

Contrary to earlier media reports that the Helmholtz-Gemeinschaft Deutscher Forschungszentren (HGDF) will withdraw from the Alberta Initiative because of growing criticism of oil sands exploration and exploitation, Dr. Bernd Uwe Schneider of the Helmholtz Center in Potsdam said that the Center will indeed reduce its collaboration with the University of Alberta, but will continue to be involved in it. He acknowledged, however, that growing public criticism is leading to a critical review of the Initiative by the four centres participating in it. Only 15% of the Alberta Initiative deal with the oil sands. Projects already underway will be continued, but new ones will not be started up. In Germany about 60 scientists are involved in the project. The University of Alberta and the outgoing Honourary Consul for Northern Alberta, Bernd Reuscher, who was one of the initiators of the project, expressed their disappointment about the decision. He said that while Alberta only permits the construction of gas-fired power plants Germany is building coal-fired plants to compensate for the exit from nuclear power energy production.

Interview with the German Federal Government’s Coordinator for Transatlantic Cooperation, Harald Leibrecht, who will visit Alberta from April 10 to 12, 2013. Among other planned events he will pay a visit to the oil sands in Fort McMurray. Detailed review of the relationship between the two countries.

Though Ralph Klein was an avid supporter of performing arts, he entrusted the Glenbow Museum to decorate his mayoral office by cycling through original western-themed paintings during his 1980-89 reign as Calgary’s mayor. He also produced one painting himself. At a charity auction in the late 1980s Calgarian Vic Lavicka paid $250.00 for a colourful sketch Klein created that was inspired by his beloved watering hole, the St. Louis Hotel tavern. The 8-inch-by-10-inch framed drawing, bearing Klein’s signature in the bottom right corner, came with a letter of authenticity printed on city hall letterhead. Klein adopted the downtown tavern as his unofficial office and campaign headquarters. After Klein’s death, the treasured work of art is even more special to Austrian-born Lavicka, 85.

Siemens Canada—a subsidiary of German engineering and technology powerhouse Siemens AG—will make Calgary its new headquarters for Canadian energy research. The company signed a memorandum of understanding with the Alberta government formalizing a collaborative relationship between Siemens and the province. As part of the agreement, Siemens will move its entire Canadian energy portfolio—including research and development related to the oil and gas industry and renewable energy technology—from its headquarters in Oakville, Ont., to the existing Siemens office in downtown Calgary. With 400 employees divided between offices in Calgary, Edmonton and Fort McMurray, Siemens already has a strong presence in Alberta.

560. Skapin, Josh. “Self-made builder started with only $12; Stepper Custom Homes Founder Dies.” Calgary Herald, April 20, 2013, p. F.2.

Obituary of Rudy Stepper. Rudy Stepper, who opened a home building business called Stepper Custom Homes in 1956, died recently at age 83. He came from Germany with $12 in his pocket, the clothes on his back, a bag and a few tools. Rudy Stepper’s first job in Canada had nothing to do with home building. With his carpentry apprentice papers he was hired to help build grain elevators, which were all wood at the time. But his first taste of home building came under the wing of veteran city builder Bill Jager of Jager Homes, who took him on as a framer. At the time, tradespeople worked directly for the builder. But during a trip to the U.S., Jager learned about the concept of sub trades and had Rudy Stepper lay the groundwork for the idea in the city. Stepper Custom Homes came to life after Rudy bought 10 lots from the City of Calgary, for $210 apiece.

With 300 cars in its fleet and 15,000 members signed up for the service in the first 60 days, Calgary is among the fastest-growing car2go cities on the continent (Berlin, Germany—a place with three times the population of Calgary but four times as many car-share vehicles—is the most well-stocked car2go city on the planet; Vienna is a distant second with 600 vehicles, and Vancouver, the only Canadian city whose car2go vehicles are hybrid electric/gasoline models, holds the title for most car2go cars in North America with 450 in its fleet). They are using Mercedes’ Smart For Two car with 70-horsepower, 1.0-litre, V4 spring engine which can be rented for a one-time sign-up fee of $35 and a per minute rental rate of 38 cents plus tax, which includes gas and parking.

The lives of 35,000 German prisoners of war who were shipped to Canada during the Second World War have been documented in a collection amassed over 40 years and now owned by the Royal Alberta Museum. The museum recently unveiled parts of the Robert Henderson PoW Collection, named for the Saskatchewan resident and former RCMP officer who spent decades collecting artefacts from the people who lived and worked in the camps. Henderson sold his collection to the museum this past winter. The German soldiers were sent to Canada following a British government request in 1940. There were thousands of PoWs already in Britain—and with the Germans planning an invasion of the United Kingdom, there were fears the PoWs were actually an army of occupation in waiting. The PoW camps also housed German sailors captured at ports around the world when the war started, and Canadian citizens of German and Italian descent. Two-thirds of the PoWs were housed in Alberta, with the country’s biggest camps in Lethbridge and Medicine Hat. Some PoWs remained in Canada until 1947. It took time to organize transportation for thousands of men back to Europe at the same time when Canadian soldiers overseas were trying to return home. The Germans arrived back to find a devastated country. Many PoWs applied from Germany to move to Canada and were eventually successful. The collection contains arts and craft pieces made by the prisoners. PoWs were encouraged to do craft work, sports or play musical instruments. Guards believed that keeping PoWs busy would prevent fights or plans for escape in their bid to return to the country that had interned them.

Guenther—a canid expert who moved to Canada from Germany more than two decades ago—and Karin Bloch have been checking on Spirit, Faith, Yuma, Trixster and Sunshine—also known as the Bow Valley wolf pack, considered one of the most critical in the Canadian Rockies. The couple has been driving the parkway almost every day for 23 years, taking a special interest when the Bow Valley wolf pack arrived in 2008. It’s their passion.

613. Migdal, Alex. “Admissions halted to 20 arts programs; Students already enrolled will be allowed to finish U of A studies.” Edmonton Journal, August 19, 2013, p. A.1.

The University of Alberta is suspending admission to 20 arts programs as the faculty grapples with a budget shortfall over the next three years. The programs were chosen because they have had 10 or fewer students enrolled as majors in each fall term, from 2005 to 2012. Students already enrolled in the programs will be allowed to complete their major. About 100 sections of arts courses were eliminated this year after a $1-million cut to the faculty’s contract instructor budget. A $3-million shortfall in the faculty’s 2013-14 budget also led to reduced graduate student funding and the removal of 11 faculty positions. The modern languages and cultural studies department is taking the brunt of the impact, with half of its majors suspended. Among the suspended programs is the Combined German and Scandinavian—Major.

Few retailers can boast of being in business for 75 years, but it was in 1938 that Cecil Charlebois and Karl Benzing opened their fur shops that were later merged to become Benzing Charlebois Furs, the largest independent furrier in the city. Charlebois’ shop was on 1st Street S.W., and although he sold out in the 1980s he continued working there until well into his 80s. Benzing was created by Karl, a German furrier, in a small shop along 7th Avenue S.W. When Benzing became ill, another furrier, Ritchie purchased his store in 1981. He merged with Charlebois in 1994 and relocated both into its current space in the Vintage building at 2nd Street and 11th Avenue S.W., a retail store that had previously been home to RC International Furs.

The Alberta All Girls Drum and Bugle Band were the toast of Europe during their first tour, which included performing at the Olympics in Munich. The two-year-old band, made up of girls 14 to 21 years of age, played in the square as the torch arrived the night before the opening of the 1972 Olympic Games. It was just one of many highlights of the Edmonton band’s trip, which had opened three weeks earlier in London with a concert in Trafalgar Square. In Munich, their first performance was a concert near the City Hall square that attracted 10,000 people. The band was still in Germany eight days later when the Palestinian terrorist group Black September took 11 members of the Israeli Olympic team hostage before killing them all, along with a German police officer.

Life-changing is how Katherine McGeean describes the Student Exchange Program for language development administered by the Alberta Teachers’ Association. The program is geared for those in grades 11 and 12, but occasionally a Grade 10 student is accepted. The students are offered the opportunity not only to further develop their skills in their chosen second language, but also to immerse themselves in the culture of a foreign country. Currently, the ATA has partnerships in Spain, Germany, Japan, Macao, Mexico and Quebec. An Alberta student is paired with a student from one of these countries. The two spend nine to 12 weeks in each country, living together with their respective families. The students also attend each other’s school. About 80 Alberta students, half from southern Alberta, take advantage of the program each year. Parents pay airfare—except for the Quebec exchange, which is government-funded—and provide spending money but, otherwise, there is no charge for the exchange. It is funded by the ATA. In addition to the student exchanges, the ATA also administers teacher exchanges. Alberta teachers can swap homes and jobs with teachers in Australia, Denmark, Germany, Switzerland, the United Kingdom and other Canadian provinces. Teachers continue to be paid their salary and return to their job at the conclusion of the exchange. Exchanges usually last a year but can also be for shorter terms. The program, which is more than 30 years old, encourages teachers to experience other educational systems, make new friends and share the strengths of the Alberta education system abroad. There were 14 year-long exchanges in 2013 with 22 scheduled for 2014. There were 20 short-term exchanges with Australia, Germany, Denmark and Spain in 2013.

The DELKINA (Deutsche Evangelisch-Lutherische Konferenz in Nordamerika), which has a membership of 27 parishes in the U.S. and Canada, will hold its 13th conference in Edmonton from September 13 to 19. The conference will be hosted by Trinity Evangelical Lutheran and St. John’s Evangelical Lutheran); the theme will “Heimat in der Fremde”.

380,000 people attended this year’s Edmonton Heritage Festival between August 3 and 5. The German pavilion was very busy: almost 7,000 bratwursts and portions of Leberkaese (Bavarian meat loaf), 1,600 pieces of applestrudel and more than 2,000 pretzels were sold by volunteers who worked for more than a thousand hours, all in all.

Ashton Paulitsch, a business student at the University of Alberta, spent a three-month internship working for the town of Grimma which has had a partnership with Leduc since 2005. The internship was made possible by the Alberta-Saxony Internship Exchange Program. She was well received, learned at great deal and is full of praise for the internship exchange program.

On the late afternoon of June 20, 2013, Eugen Ederle’s beloved river began to behave in a manner he’d never before seen. By dinnertime, the Bow was moving at more than 1,700 cubic metres per second, transforming the placid river into a roiling menace that engulfed his streets, then home, with thick, unforgiving mud and water. Thus began a journey for the Ederles, along with thousands of other Calgarians and southern Albertans. It is a journey that Bowness, seen as a less desirable community because of its distance from the city’s core and in time, would become known as a sketchy, working-class area that had more than its share of crime. That park was thanks to developer John Hextall, who once had big plans for the land used for cattle grazing. He envisioned an upscale suburban enclave when he purchased it in 1911, setting aside three hectares for Bowness Park, the jewel in the crown of his elite community plan. But it was a dream that would be squashed by the First World War and ensuing Great Depression. It was not until the end of the Second World War, when an influx of returning soldiers along with Dutch and German immigrants, that Bowness would evolve from a village with just a scattering of small houses into a town in its own right. In 1964, Bowness came into the fold of Calgary, a major development in name if not entirely in practice. To most urban dwellers, the hour-long bus ride—which replaced the long-used streetcar system in the early 1950s—made it an undesirable place to call home in the city of less than 300,000 people. For a young couple renting in Sunnyside, though, Bowness held the promise of a prosperous future, as well as a nature-filled oasis to raise their growing family. Eugen and Monika Ederle were newly arrived from Germany’s Black Forest region, part of the second wave of German immigrants to the fast-growing city. “We had no television, no car, no money,” says Monika of those lean early years of marriage. “We saved every penny—not every dollar, every penny.” Eugen, a carpenter by trade, was dismayed at his job prospects when he first arrived in 1959. So he went into the cabinet-making business. By the early 1960s, the Ederles had put those pennies to good use. Eugen started his own cabinetry company and the couple bought their first house. The house, one of the nicest and biggest in Bowness when it was finished in 1970, would in 30 years time be dwarfed by even bigger homes worth a million dollars. Back then, the Ederles couldn’t imagine that one day their neighbourhood would evolve into an eclectic mix of wealthy and working-class residents; nor had they ever heard of such terms as flood fringe or floodway, since flood mapping for their area wouldn’t even begin for another two decades. Then again, the waters never posed a threat. On the morning of June 20, 2013, though, Eugen and youngest son Norm, who lives with his parents, didn’t like what they were seeing on the news. Even though they hadn’t seen a drop of water into their basement in 40 years, the news was alarming. That evening, his greatest fears were realized. His street, none of it in the floodway, was now a lake.

St. Albert author Corinne Jeffery launches the third and final novel in the Understanding Ursula trilogy at 2 p.m. on Saturday, September 29 at the St. Alberta Public Library, 5 St. Anne St. The trilogy deals with the lives of the controversial Werner family, a German-Lutheran family that fled Russia to settle on the harsh Canadian Prairies.

Alberta’s new institute to commercialize university research moved ahead Friday with the appointment of 10 international experts, businesspeople and academics to an organizing panel. All panel members, including panel chair Daniel Roos from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, are involved in similar agencies across the globe and are also well-acquainted with Alberta’s research environment, said Enterprise and Advanced Education Minister Thomas Lukaszkuk, who announced the panel. The panel will consult business, the research community and post-secondary colleges and universities to see what is needed and should have recommendations on how to proceed ready in a matter of weeks. The institute will be an independent entity that will facilitate work between researchers and private sector companies, will help find venture capital, and deal with issues such as intellectual property and royalties. The goal is to push the diversification of Alberta’s economy. Among the experts is Reinhard Huttl from Germany. He is president of the German National Academy of Science and Engineering and with the Helmholtz research centre in Potsdam.

After an intermission of a few years, the Association for German Education in Calgary together with the Language School of the German-Canadian Club of Calgary, organized a family-friendly Oktoberfest. 250 people attended this event. Of course, there were refreshments, a program for the children and a performance by the Schuhplattler group Enzian.

The German-Canadian Cultural Association celebrated its 30th anniversary from September 13 to 15, 2013 with dances, a festive dinner and a coffee klatsch. Among the honourary guests present were Deputy Premier Thomas Lukaszuk and the leader of the Alberta Liberals, Dr. Raj Sherman.

The former president of the GCAA, Heinz Kleist, was honoured by his successor, Ron Link, for his many achievements in the office.

The University of Alberta intends to increase the percentage of its students who spent some time abroad during their studies from 14% to at last 20% by 2015. At present the University offers more than 250 study-abroad programs in more than 40 countries.

The Vienna Bakery in Edmonton celebrated its second anniversary with a customer appreciation day featuring bratwurst from K&K Foodliner, coffee, lemonade and bakery products from their own products. Actually the bakery is much older because the Vienna Bakery had been in existence from 1987 to 2005 on 81st Avenue in Strathcona, run by Bernie and Brigitte Jaeger. Their son Brian then decided to re-open the bakery at 10207-63 Avenue.

At the beginning of September a delegation of the CDU caucus in the Landtag of Saxony visited the Province of Alberta. They examined Alberta’s school system and were impressed especially by the amount of freedom individual teachers have in their work. Among others they visited Bowcroft Elementary School in Calgary, an English-German bilingual school.

20 teachers from Saxony will again spend four weeks in Alberta to participate in an in-service program at the University of Alberta. They will also visit several schools and participate in a conference of teachers of German in Alberta. It is hoped that local families will again be prepared to host these teachers in their homes.

Canadian Supreme Court Justice Rosalie Silberman Abella was appointed in 2004 by Paul Martin. She was considered a human-rights activist at the time of her appointment. She was the commissioner of the 1974 Royal Commission on Equality in Employment and is credited with coining the term "employment equity." Abella is the first Jewish woman appointed to the court. She was born in a displaced persons camp in Germany, arriving in Canada as a refugee in 1950.

Travelling Light, a large metal sculpture located along the 96th Avenue connection to Airport Trail N.E., has triggered emotional response across the city, much of it sparked by the piece’s $471,000 price tag and questions about its artistic merit. But the experienced creators of the sculpture say the criticism was unexpected. A panel of five jury members—three from the design and arts community, one from the wider public and another from the city’s transportation department—had combed through 55 submissions before accepting Inges Idee’s bid. Since the art program began in 2004, city hall has spent $12 million commissioning 37 works, including “Jumping Trout” on the overpass at the interchange of Glenmore Trail, Elbow Drive and 5th Avenue, and “Skywalk” on the pedestrian overpass near the Canyon Meadows CTrain station. An expert said he’s familiar with the work of the German design team behind “Travelling Light,” Inges Idee, and he doesn’t believe the big blue ring is among the group’s finest pieces, but he also doesn’t think it’s terrible.

The German team behind a controversial public-art installation says it’s surprised by the backlash over its creation, called “awful” and “terrible” by Calgary’s mayor and joked about by others. Travelling Light, a large metal sculpture located along the 96th Avenue connection to Airport Trail N.E., has triggered emotional response across the city, much of it sparked by the piece’s $471,000 price tag and questions about its artistic merit. But the experienced creators of the sculpture say the criticism was unexpected. The designer says that the German group has created several other public artworks in Canada, including Vancouver and Edmonton, and has “never faced this kind of reaction.” The group defends the steep price tag, saying the majority of the project’s budget was spent in Calgary.

Gabriel (Gaby) Haas and his Barn Dance Gang became the first Edmonton musical group to sign a contract with a national recording company. The contract called for them to release a new recording every six to eight weeks. The group had already completed six “sides” (doublesided records), which were being distributed throughout Canada and the United States. Haas and his Gang had been together for eight years. They were well known to country and western and old-time dance fans in many parts of northern Alberta. They performed twice weekly at Edmonton dances as well as on radio programs, country dance dates and helped raise money on behalf of the Alberta Commercial Travellers’ crippled children’s fund. Some of the selections recorded by the Barn Dance Gang included the Gay Be Polka, Red River Waltz and Upside-Down Reel. The accordion-playing Haas, who was a native of Franzensbad, Czechoslovakia (now the Czech Republic), came to Canada in 1939. He settled in Edmonton the following year. Haas went on to record more than 50 albums and 60 singles, mostly polkas and waltzes, many of which he had written himself. He became known as Canada’s Mr. Polka, a nickname he shared with St. Catharines, Ont., accordionist Walter Ostaneck. As well as being a talented musician and composer, Haas was a long-time host of country music TV shows on CFRN (now CTV), as well as popular music shows such as Continental Musica, the German Show and European Music Shop on CKUA radio, where he played host for more than 40 years. He was also the inspiration for the fictional polka-playing Shmenge Brothers and their band, The Happy Wanderers, on the TV cult classic SCTV, which was filmed in Edmonton from 1980 to 1981. Haas was 67 when he died on Nov. 22, 1987.

Exhibition Park in Lethbridge—home of Whoop-Up Days and other festivities—also has ties to a dark chapter in Canada’s history. A century ago, European civilians deemed “enemy aliens” were held prisoner at the site, one of 24 First World War internment camps across the country. Citizens of the Austro-Hungarian and Turkish empires, as well as Germany, were forced to develop Banff National Park, log in Northern Ontario and labour in mines in British Columbia. The Lethbridge camp operated between 1914 and 1916 and housed approximately 300 prisoners of war, as well as Canadians with German-sounding names and many Ukrainian immigrants. On October 29, a permanent memorial will be placed at Exhibition Park to honour an often overlooked part of Canadian history. The Harper government set up the $10-million Canadian First World War Internment Recognition Fund in 2008 to support projects commemorating the experience of the thousands of Ukrainians and other Europeans interned between 1914 and 1920 and the many others who suffered a suspension of their civil liberties.

A visit to the egg barn on the Scotford Hutterite Colony seven kilometres northeast of Fort Saskatchewan shows many laying hens spend their entire lives in battery cages. While countries in the European Union have banned battery cages because of concerns for chicken welfare—they must now be larger and furnished with perches, litter and claw-shortening devices—83 per cent of the 157 egg farms in Alberta use the conventional cages. Of the 157 egg farms in Alberta: . . 134 farms are located on Hutterite colonies and 23 on non-colony family farms, such as Ku-Ku Farms near Morinville. . . 27 farms (or 17 per cent, up from 1.5 per cent in 2006) are using alternative housing systems, such as furnished cages (bigger cages for between 24 to 60 birds, offering more floor space, perches and dust baths), free-run farms (hens run free within a barn, then lay eggs in floor-level nesting boxes), free-range (hens have access to outdoor runs) and aviary farms (a variation of free-run farms with more climbing opportunities on tiered nest boxes). Alberta egg farms house 1.9 million laying hens. The average hen lays more than 280 eggs in one year, the Egg Farmers of Alberta says.

The Alberta government unveiled a plan Tuesday aimed at growing the province’s tourism industry by almost one third by 2020—a plan that calls for more development of tourist attractions in parks and on Crown land. The Alberta Tourism Framework, a strategy for turning what is currently a $7.8-billion industry into a $10.3-billion industry, was developed in consultation with Travel Alberta and industry representatives. It aims to build on Travel Alberta’s successful “Remember to Breathe” marketing strategy, convincing more travellers to seek out the Alberta experience. One of several outlined priorities is expanding the province’s supply of tourism experiences, especially in national and provincial parks and on Crown land near water, mountains or other natural attractions. One obvious target for marketing is Germany.

On September 21, the students in the German Language School of Edmonton began their school year by receiving a (cone-shaped) bag filled with sweets, an old tradition in Germany.

More than a thousand people attended the Oktoberfest in the German-Canadian Cultural Center which was celebrated at the end of September and the beginning of October.

On October 8 a meeting was held in Edmonton’s Art Gallery of Edmonton on the topic “Integrating wind and solar: the German experience”. The lecture by Dr. Kurt Rohrig was part of the series “Canadian German Smart Grids and Energy Storage”, supported by the German Embassy, the City of Edmonton and the Pembina Institute.

On October 16, the European Union Centre of Excellence, a three-year agreement with the European Commission, was officially introduced. The Centre’s director, Lori Thorlakson, said that the Center will focus on three key areas of activity: outreach, academic exchanges and establishment of a post-doctoral position. Focus themes for research will be multiculturalism, sovereignty and citizenship. The Center will work in concert with the Canadian Circumpolar Institute, the Helmholtz-Alberta Inititaive and the Wirth Institute.

More than 600 German travel agents, tour operators and travel journalists will be landing in Alberta next week for a one-of-a-kind tourism conference. DERTOUR Academy is the largest training and promotion event for travel agents in the German and Austrian travel industry. Each year, the event is hosted in a different location around the world—past hosts include Toronto, New York City, Hawaii, Ireland and Spain. Travel Alberta CEO Bruce Okabe said hosting the event is a coveted privilege because it invariably results in higher tourism sales and spending from Germany. Already, Germany is Alberta’s second largest overseas tourism market, resulting in $76 million in trip expenditures. Okabe said based on what previous DERTOUR Academy hosts have reported, that figure could increase by $16 million annually once more German travel agents get a sense of what Alberta has to offer. The German visitors will attend workshops and sessions in Calgary and Banff and will take excursions to Edmonton, Jasper, Drumheller and Kananaskis. These “familiarization tours” are designed to showcase the province and give local tourism operators the chance to pitch their products and brands.

Parishioners from the Edmonton Moravian Church are hoping to illuminate Old Strathcona Sunday night. From 5 p.m. to 11 p.m., local businesses and residents will light luminarias purchased from the church to raise awareness about homelessness and poverty in the community. All proceeds from the $10 kits will be donated to the Neighbour Centre, a small resource centre for homeless and at risk adults in Old Strathcona. The campaign is modelled after one that the Rio Terrace Community Moravian Church has done for about five years in support of Jasper Place Health and Wellness. They even offer sleigh rides so people can see the luminarias around the neighbourhood. Before the Neighbour Centre came to be, there was nowhere for homeless and marginalized adults on the south side of Edmonton to go, since most resources are located downtown. Now, 50 to 60 people use the facility on 104th Street, south of Whyte Avenue, on a daily basis. The centre is not an overnight shelter, but provides a safe warm haven in the morning and evening where free food, hot drinks, a shower room, laundry facilities and computers are available. It runs on private donations and grants, so to have the Edmonton Moravian Church get involved in fundraising is “fantastic.” The Edmonton Moravian Church, 9540 83rd Ave., has a long history in Old Strathcona. Established by German Protestant settlers more than 100 years ago, it was the first Moravian church in Canada. There are now eight Moravian churches in Alberta, five of which are in the Edmonton area. The church places a strong emphasis on mission and community work, but pastors have their own trademarks. Today, five to seven parishioners volunteer at the centre on a regular basis and a new group has signed up to start in January.
